Tunnel Crews Strike

Two heavy construction projects came to a halt Wednesday and today as workers walked out in a bid for recognition of local 168 Tunnel and Rock Workers' Union.

Picket lines were set up at Maude Island, Ripple Rock project Wednesday, and at B.C. Power Commission's Upper Campbell Lake power project this morning.

Union spokesmen indicated employees on the Cheakamus hydro tunnel project near Lil-loet would also strike.

SOMMERS' CHARGES

Allistone Holds Official Record Of '55 Airing

VANCOUVER (CP)—Ernest F. Allistone today termed Social Credit League president Noel Murphy "stranger to the truth" for denying knowledge of a meeting in August, 1955, at which Mr. Allistone says corruption charges against Robert E. Sommers were aired.

He denounced Mr. Murphy's statement as "typical of the 'denial tactics' of the Bennett machine."

Mr. Allistone said: "I have the official minutes of the August, 1955, meeting at which the Social Credit member made the accusations."

Mr. Allistone, former president of the Point Grey Social Credit Constituency Association, now an independent candidate in the Vancouver riding, told a campaign meeting Tuesday night that a Social Credit disclosed charges of "corruption and dishonesty" at a party meeting last August.

He said Premier Bennett and the Social Credit League board "did nothing" about the charges against the minister of lands and forests.

ROUGH TIME

In a statement today Mr. Allistone said the card-carrying party officials who bared the charges "was given such a rough time by Sommers' business connections in the timber industry that he was unable to obtain employment here in his chosen field and eventually moved with his family to Oregon."

In his rebuttal Wednesday night Mr. Murphy had said such a complaint was never brought before him by anyone.

"The best answer to Mr. Allistone," he said, "is that he has been rejected four times by the people who know him best."

PROOF ASKED

He called on Mr. Allistone to produce proof of his statements or identify the accuser.

Mr. Allistone replied today that he does not propose to drag the name of the accuser "through the political mire."

He added: "I am prepared, however, to stand behind my statements and produce the evidence at the proper time and place—when, and only when, Mr. Murphy has the courage to acknowledge and face the facts."

Malahat Slide Kills 2 City Men; Stoppage Ordered on Rock Scaling

FRED ROLSTON
... saw chum die

All rock scaling above the Malahat highway at Tunnel hill was ordered stopped today following the deaths of two construction workers Wednesday.

Workmen's Compensation Board Inspector R. E. Hill, who investigated the double tragedy this morning, said discussions will be held immediately to determine if some other means of clearing loose, overhead rock cannot be devised.

Inquest into the deaths will be held at Chaplin's Funeral Chapel in Victoria, Friday at 10 a.m.

Crushed to death at about 1:30 p.m. were two workers, Roy White, 29, 2064 Byron, and Gerald Michael Kennedy, 18, 236 Dallas.

The pair were part of a crew working about 60 feet above the highway on the steeply-sloped mountain wall. They were prying loose rock which might threaten highway traffic, tumbling it to the roadway for clearance by bulldozers.

A slide which apparently started 200 feet above where they were working carried the pair down to the roadway, burying them under tons of boulders and loose shale, killing both instantly.

The first body, that of White, was recovered 90 minutes later. The 18-year-old Kennedy's body was not uncovered until 4:45 p.m.

The two workers were without protection of safety ropes at the time of the accident, fellow workers said. Compensation board regulations require men scaling in such an area to be fastened by ropes to trees or other firm objects above them.

"I understand they had been cautioned by a foreman to use the ropes before they began work," the compensation board inspector said.

Premier's Fighting Speech 'Blackened Out' By Power Failure at Crowded Theatre

By NORMAN CRIBBENS Times Political Reporter

In fighting mood Premier Bennett harangued the opposition parties in an interrupted, action, parties in a heckled, applauded and "blackened-out" evening at the Royal Theatre Wednesday night.

The premier's oratory was in full flood when the lights flickered madly like tropic lightning and went out, reducing illumination to a dim, eerie glow.

"There were cries of 'sabotage' and 'don't let them stop you,'" the premier tried to continue speaking but the microphones had gone dead and people at the back shouted, "We can't hear."

The premier sat down and Aid J. Donald Smith, one of the Victoria Social Credit candidates, took over.

He led the audience in community singing for 31 minutes while B.C. Electric engineers replaced a burned-out transformer outside the theatre.

Shortly after the black-out started, seven city policemen rushed into the lobby of the theatre and two ran upstairs.

There were more cries of "sabotage" and the police were asked if they had made "an arrest." They shook their heads.

"We are here to see there is no panic," one said, as he assisted an elderly lady out of the darkened theatre.

While the audience sang "Pack Up Your Troubles," "A Long, Long Trail A-Winding," "Tipperary," and "After the Ball is Over," a Social Credit sitting in the middle of the theatre trained his flashlight on a large portrait of the premier hanging over the stage and kept it illuminated until the lights went on again.

Resuming, Mr. Bennett said: "That should dispel the idea there is any connection between this government and the B.C.

DID NOT SAY 'LIAR' BENNETT EXPLAINS

Premier Bennett made it clear in his speech here Wednesday night that he had not used the term "liar" in referring to CCF leader Robert Strachan in a speech at Courtenay Monday night.

"I did not use those words. I've never used them," Mr. Bennett said.

What he had said at Courtenay was that statements made by Mr. Strachan regarding the B.C. Power Commission were untrue.

"But I did not use the word 'liar' as some papers reported," he said.

Nasser's goin' th' old pharaohs one better. They piled up stones for themselves. He's pillin' up trouble.

Many a party plank is a springboard for ambition.

Last night wasn't th' first time Premier Bennett's kept th' people in th' dark.

Russia Appeals To West to 'Keep Guns in Holster'

Crisis Developments

1. "Shooting war" warning given by Egypt.
2. Russia tells West to "keep guns in holster."
3. Pro-British Asiatic leader calls Anglo-French "take-over Suez" plan a "great stride toward war."
4. Dulles says U.S. favors diverting ships around Africa, will not join in any shooting sparked by canal dispute.

LONDON (AP)—Egypt told the Western powers to-night their plans to control Suez canal traffic—if carried through—will flash off a new war.

And Russia, which has backed up Egypt's seizure of the vital waterway, moved back into the storm with urgent appeals to Britain and France to keep their guns in their holsters.

Egypt's "this means war" warning was delivered to the United States which with Britain and France, sponsored the idea of an association of canal users to pilot their own ships through the Suez, collect dues and share the income with Egypt.

But State Secretary Dulles told a Washington press conference the United States has no intention of shooting a passage through the canal if Egypt blocks the way. He said the U.S. government would favor diverting its ships around Africa regardless of the cost.

In London, Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd reported full American support for the plan to take over control of canal traffic.

He disclosed to a packed emergency session of Parliament that Britain is calling a conference of Suez-using nations for next week, probably in London to get the project working.

Lloyd gravely added: "We are not prepared to let unrestricted control of the operation of this canal pass into the hands of one government or one man.

"Upon that issue we are not prepared to compromise," The Western Big Three project for a canal users' association, announced only Wednesday, within hours split opinion in Britain and across the world.

Prime Minister Nehru of India, who leads the thinking of neutral Asians, denounced the plan. He said Eden's speech "appears to close the door to further negotiations." He asked the Big Three to drop their plan and accept Nasser's offer of limited negotiation.

Earl Attlee, Britain's Labor prime minister from 1945 to 1951, charged in the House of Lords the Eden government's policy "is fraught with the gravest danger to peace, is dangerous to the position of Britain in the world and endangers the whole position of the British Commonwealth."

'A Giant Stride' Toward War

Ceylon's Premier Bandanaike, another prominent Asian nationalist and member of the Commonwealth, charged Britain has taken "a giant stride" toward war.

Russia's intervention—in the form of personal notes to the premier, Nikolai Bulganin to Eden and Molotov—remained the best-kept diplomatic secret of the moment.

But government officials in London and Paris reported the tone of the notes was moderate though firm and that Bulganin called upon the two sides to do nothing that might touch off a shooting war. The Soviet Union's position in the crisis also was defined.

In the House of Commons debate amid the cheers of his Conservative supporters and the jeers of his Labor opponents, Lloyd claimed the government's attitude throughout has remained loyal to the United Nations in handling the dispute.

Lloyd declared Britain had brought the issue to the attention of the Security Council "not as a formality but in a genuine effort to improve thereby the prospect of a peaceful settlement."

Egypt sent a letter to the president of the United Nations Security Council charging Britain and France must bear responsibility for any danger in shipping growing out of a walk-out of foreign Suez pilots and technicians.

But Lloyd denied in his speech that either the French or British governments have told non-Egyptian pilots in Egypt to quit their jobs.

"We have in no way sought to influence the pilots to leave," he told the House.

"But there really is a limit to what free men can be expected to undergo. As far as I know these men are now working under martial law of another country."

The Suez users' association proposed by the Western Big Three is aimed at regulating international traffic through the canal-supplying pilots to guide the ships.

The association would be in the role of a tenant—collecting tolls but paying rental fees to Egypt as the landlord of the canal.

Prime Minister Eden has staked the life of his government on the new plan for the canal.

He asked Wednesday for a vote of confidence which was expected later today.

(United Press reported from London it is understood that canal convoys will be lined up in international waters and sailed into the Egyptian entrances to the canal, where permission to enter will be sought. Under the 1888 treaty, no ship

"Some mechanical means should be used to take down the rock that was a danger to the public."

Another official confirmed he had heard the opinion expressed to the contractors that a dragline should be used for the job.

Peril of the operation was demonstrated to fellow workers of the dead men and dozens of highway travellers who watched the road-clearing later in the afternoon.

Plano-sized boulders had to be lifted by power shovel and pushed clear by bulldozers. For hours the rumble of rolling rock was heard as the fallen rocks were pushed across the highway to bounce 200 yards from the steep hillside into Finlayson Inlet. They hit the water like bombs and cascaded water to the shoreline treetops.

Nearest eyewitness to the accident was Fred Rolston, 25, 568 Whiteside, Victoria. He had been working on the roadway, directing traffic, halting cars as the crew above him loosened the big rocks which had been dislodged by earlier blasting operations.

"The slide started about 200 feet above them. All I could see was the red shirt (Kennedy's) coming down. Kennedy had never scaled before. He never had a chance."

"They had ropes up there. I don't know why they never put them on."

Other workers felt the slide may have started from a combination of events—heavy rains the day previous, the earlier blasting operations and perhaps the vibrations from trains passing over the E. and N. tracks which pass across the side of the mountain above where the slide started.

OTHERS JUMPED

Truck driver Jim Hickey, who witnessed the slide from a point further down the road, said other members of the scaling crew were able to jump clear as the bank crumbled.

Of White and Kennedy, he stated, "I don't think they knew what happened. They slid over the edge in a matter of seconds. I must have been four minutes that the rocks rolled down on them."

It was Hickey who drove to the engineers' office and reported the slide. RCMP officers were immediately called from Colwood and Langford ambulance attended.

The task of digging out the bodies seemed never-ending to the operators of the shovel and two bulldozers. About 60 workmen gathered to help, and at one time 15 men clambered over the heap of rock, wrestling boulders aside with their bare hands.

They were called away for fear of further accident and to permit the machines greater access.

The body of Roy White was uncovered first and was transported to town by the Langford ambulance. The search for Kennedy's body lasted for three hours.

Finally, as the shovel chewed at the base of the slide, other surface rock rolled down and uncovered the youth. His body was held 10 feet above the surface of the roadway.

HAZARDOUS

Efforts to remove it were hazardous. Finally the heavy scoop of the shovel was wedged into the loose rock above the body, holding further rockfall back, permitting RCMP officers, workers and Colwood firemen to extract it safely.

The body was sheeted and carried past the shocked construction crews to a Colwood can be barred — civil ship or naval, peacetime or wartime—unless it poses a threat to the defence of Egypt itself.)

The question of canal pilots loomed larger as the plans for the users' agency were being outlined.

In Cairo about 100 of the 146 veteran pilots now on the job guiding ships through the difficult channel gave notice that they will quit their jobs Friday night. They are non-Egyptians hired by the old canal company, who said they now want to leave Egypt.

They had remained at their posts while attempts were made to negotiate a settlement of the dispute.

Lloyd today told a sharply divided Commons: "Of course there are grave practical difficulties to carrying out the plan but the grave practical difficulties are not of our making."

Emmanuel Shinwell, defence minister in the last Labor government, suggested the canal users' proposal smacked of an American plot.

"I am very suspicious of the United States," he said.

Shinwell said he believes that there are "elements" in the U.S. which would like to boot Britain out of the Middle East—so far as oil is concerned.

British officials said the U.S. has promised to supply Britain with oil—payable in sterling instead of dollars—if Middle East sources are cut off.

Recreation Head Finds Jive Okay

NANAIMO (CP) — Alfred Kristianson, Nanaimo recreation superintendent, says he doesn't approve of rock 'n' roll but considers jiving "a good, healthy recreation."

During the whole operation, cars and trucks were halted on both sides of the slide. As bulldozers cleared the rubble a few cars were let through intermittently.

Roy White had taken the job with Campbell-Bennett after a strike-enforced lay-off at Empress Motors where he has worked as an automobile technician for 12 years. He is survived by his wife Lottie, six-year-old Glen and three-year-old Holly. Born here, Roy White was to have celebrated his eighth wedding anniversary next month.

Gerald Kennedy was to have quit his job Friday and planned to leave for St. John, Quebec, where he was to begin training with the RCAF. His mother said, "He had just taken that job for pocket money, extra money for his bank account."

He had graduated from Victoria High School in June. Besides his parents, he is survived by two older brothers and two older sisters, all of whom are married.

Funeral of Kennedy will take place Saturday. Prayers will be held at Chaplin's Funeral Chapel Friday at 7:30 p.m. Requiem High Mass will be held at St. Andrew's Cathedral, Saturday at 10 a.m. Burial will be at Royal Oak.

Socreds Arrogant Gregory Charges

B.C. Never Had Premier 'So Devoid Of Values', Says Liberal Candidate

Premier W. A. C. Bennett is "totally devoid of understanding of our democratic system," Victoria Liberal candidate George Gregory said Wednesday night.

"He is ready to be taken off in a straitjacket when he is not interested in the fact that one of his ministers is accused of taking $5,000 in bribes," Mr. Gregory said.

The Liberal candidate referred to Mr. Bennett's statement in Dunsmuir Tuesday night that the opposition had set up all night talking about $5,000 and didn't have anything to say about the government's $68,000,000 road program.

"The $6,000 we stayed up all night for was the $6,000 alleged."

'Too Busy to Worry About Bribes'

Mr. Gregory said the government has become "arrogant and conceited and too busy with its road program to worry about $6,000 that is alleged to have been paid in bribes."

Calling of the Sept. 19 election by the premier is closely linked to the Sturdy-Sommers case, he said.

The RCMP report on investigations into the charges made against former lands and forests minister R. E. Sommers was turned over to the attorney-general on Aug. 1. On Aug. 13

British Columbians Over-Taxed

Mr. Gregory pledged a Liberal government would reduce taxes in B.C. if elected, including the sales tax, amusement tax, and automobile licence fees.

"We can reduce taxes because the people are now over-taxed," Mr. Gregory also referred to the Cassiar-Stewart road and said contractors Wade and Wells Ltd. of Trail, hired without tender by Mines Minister Sommers, were "hopelessly lost."

"They ran the road into a lake because they were building it so fast the engineers couldn't keep up with it."

Mr. Shaw also hit out at the "patronage" involved in the building of the northern mining assistance road. Mr. Sommers had given the contract to two of his friends who couldn't lose because they had a cost-plus contract, Mr. Shaw said.

The government was accused by Mr. Shaw of taking credit for things carried out by previous governments.

"As for the PGE, they act as if they built the whole railway from Vancouver to Prince George, when actually all they did was add on the little extension at this end which was already planned when they came into office."

Social Credit was spending money on propaganda in the present election campaign "like drunken sailors."

"This is a campaign of desperation," he said. "They must be afraid something is going to happen to them."

Mr. Edgelow said the Liberals were the only party with a firm platform, which it would adhere to.

He pledged a Liberal government would restore the autonomy of municipal councils and school boards.

'LIKE TO TURN BACK CLOCK'

Labor, Management Strife Stirred by SCs, Says Tory

Charges that the Social Credit government is "anti-labor" and is stirring up strife between labor and management were levelled Wednesday night by Monty Drake, Victoria Progressive Conservative candidate.

"This government would like to turn back the clock and stir up all the strife which used to exist between labor and management," he told a meeting in the McBride Hall.

He added that words like "liar" and "crook" were being freely bandied about by candidates who were trying to defeat him.

"Mere name-calling has always been the mark of a boor," he said.

premier do his duty over Sommers?" referring to former lands and forests minister Robert Sommers.

"I'll tell you the whole story," replied the premier and launched into a review of opposition attacks made on the government since it took office in 1952.

DISPLAYS ANGER

"A Liberal strategy was organized in Ottawa and they sent their propagandists out here."

"Answer the question," shouted a woman.

"Give me a chance and I'll answer you," replied the premier.

He said the Liberals first tried to launch an attack in Alberta but failed. Then they turned their attention to B.C.

"A man who was not living in B.C., not living in Canada at all, came up from California and signed an affidavit," he said, referring to Charles Eversfield, principal witness in the Sturdy-Sommers case.

"This Sturdy appeared before the Chief Justice at the Sloan Commission. . . . The Chief Justice stopped him but not before he had got some of his propaganda across. . . .

"What did Sommers do then? He did what you or I would have done. He sued for slander."

His voice rising in anger, the premier said this was the same sort of case as the suit between Mr. Wismer and Maclean's Magazine before the last election, and the magazine had to print an apology.

"The same thing will happen again. Those who are trying to smear this young movement will get their justice," he declared.

"It is not for me or for the legislature to try this case. It is for the courts of the land."

The premier claimed if Social Credit were re-elected on Sept. 19, it would be the start of a "garden era" for B.C.

"We are just at the beginning of the beginning. Wait till we get a working majority in the House and we will show you what a Social Credit government can do."

LISTS REASONS

Mr. Bennett gave four reasons for calling the election.

1. He wanted a mandate to pass new legislation for the $28 tax exemption for small home owners.

2. The "highly intelligent men who work in the press gallery at the legislature" had repeatedly asked if there would be an election. The newspapers were full of election talk.

3. The government wanted to make further changes. It wanted to create new departments and appoint additional cabinet ministers. "I won't say yet what those new departments will be."

4. The government had added four additional seats to the Legislature, with two seats for the Peace River country "which is worth billions of dollars to B.C."

He said British Columbia nearly lost the Peace River country. Before the Social Credit government came to power, Peace River constituents wanted to join with Alberta.

"Now part of Alberta would like to join up with us," the premier asserted.

QUESTIONS AUDIENCE

He frequently addressed questions to his audience. "Does anyone object to us borrowing money for the Pacific Great Eastern and the B.C. Power Commission?"

A man answered "yes."

"Stand up, please," said the premier. "What party do you belong to?"

"No party," the man answered.

"That means he takes no re-responsibility in public affairs," the premier replied.

Later he asked: "Does anyone object to us guaranteeing the school bonds?"

When there was no answer, he said: "We are certainly getting along fine tonight. No wonder the Liberals are panicking. They know how the people are leaving them."

Mr. Bennett claimed there should be more Social Credit governments in Canada.

"No chance of that," a man said, to which the premier answered: "Then, my friend, there is no chance for the Canadian people as a nation."

He repeatedly poked fun at the former Liberal and Coalition governments:

"When we took office in 1952, there were more pigeons in the legislative buildings than there are pigeons in B.C."

"It was common sense to reduce the election period to 38 days. The longer period belonged to the days when you had to send ballot boxes round the province by horse and wagon over the old Liberal cow roads."

"No wonder they change their leaders so often. They'll have to change them again after the 19th."

He said he had invited the editorial writers of Victoria and Vancouver newspapers to come and see him.

"They stayed away. They knew they couldn't write their editorials if they had the facts."

He charged that the publisher of the Victoria Times and its editor, Bruce Hutchison, were trying to "blacken this government" in the pages of the Financial Post and Toronto Saturday Night.

Electricity Likes Ultra-Cold Copper

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Scientists here are investigating the secrets of a kind of immortality existing at absolute zero—459 degrees below Fahrenheit—the coldest anywhere in the universe.

Near that temperature, electric currents win the immortality. Ordinarily an electric current once started in a ring of purest copper dies out in about one second. But if certain metals are chilled cold enough, the current will apparently flow forever. The metal loses all resistance.

The curious behavior is known as super-conductivity. Certain metals possess it when frozen to within a degree or so of absolute zero.

Scientists want to know why and how it happens. The answers some day might lead to means of producing or controlling super-conductivity for practical electronic applications of entirely new kinds.

DESCRIBED TO WRITERS

Experiments with super-conductivity were described today to science writers touring the new research laboratories of the Westinghouse Electric Corp. near here.

One approach is to bombard frozen metals with the highest-frequency micro-waves ever generated by man. These waves oscillate back and forth at the rate of 200,000,000,000 vibrations a second.

Electrons are the carriers of electricity. One idea is that in the super-conducting frozen metals, the electrons are "condensed" out of the normal state in which they move through metal.

The frozen metals absorb the micro-waves and soak up enough energy to lift their electrons from the super-conducting to normal conducting state. How much energy is needed to do this is measured by thermometers so precise that they can detect temperature changes of only 1-10,000,000 of a degree.

Bomb Rocks Army Hospital On Cyprus

NICOSIA (CP)—A time bomb exploded today in a new building in the British military hospital cantonment at Dekhelia on the south Cyprus coast.

British authorities said there were no casualties, as the building was unoccupied at the time. The explosion was followed by a fire which was quickly put out.

Meanwhile, the three-week British amnesty offer to Cypriot terrorists expired without a single acknowledged terrorist surrendering.

The offer, extended after the union-with-Greece terrorist organization EOKA announced a truce, was withdrawn at midnight.

33 years of misery... ASTHMA and Chronic Bronchitis

If bronchial asthma sometimes makes you feel like a human wreck, see what happened to Mr. H. J. Reeder, Box 321, Armstrong, B.C. He tells us: "When I was 45 years of age, I began to suffer from asthma and chronic bronchitis. At 78 years of age, I had not found the medicine I needed to get relief from attacks of coughing, wheezing and gasping for breath. Then I was introduced to Templeton's RAZ-MAH by a neighbour, and am thankful indeed to have learned about this comforting relief. Since using RAZ-MAH I breathe far more easily . . . sleep comfortably and am able to take pleasure in life again . . . get about without difficulty." Enjoy quick relief from chronic bronchitis and asthma with Templeton's RAZ-MAH—only 79c and $1.50 at drug counters.

KEPT BY DESTROYER NAMESAKE

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—A promise made 178 years ago by American naval hero John Paul Jones to the people of Kirkcubright, Scotland, was fulfilled recently, the U.S. navy announced here. Jones promised he would restore to the Scottish town silver looted by his men in 1778 when they raided the town. The destroyer John Paul Jones delivered a silver tray to town officials last week.

At a Critical Point

THE DETAILS OF PRIME MINISTER Eden's "users' association" proposal to solve the problem of the Suez are still far from clear. But what does emerge from the present uncertainty is that Britain and the United States are once more in agreement on what must be done. That unity is fundamentally far more important than the Suez problem itself. It is the keystone of Western security in a divided world and it must be preserved no matter what minor disagreements may emerge.

It is difficult to see how the Eden proposal can be implemented without military action, if both parties to the dispute maintain their stand. Britain and France have said they will resort to force, reluctant as they may be, if this proves necessary to maintain the international requirements of the Suez waterway. Egypt, on the other hand, has insisted that armed resistance will answer any such steps by the western powers.

There can be little doubt that, despite Soviet backing, President Nasser finds himself in difficulties. In addition to being faced with a determined western bloc, he is on the brink of losing almost all of the trained pilots whose services are necessary to the proper functioning of the canal. He has mortgaged his country's economic future in order to buy arms—and the mortgage is held by the most aggressively colonial power in the world today, Russia.

As the British leader points out: "I cannot help feeling that when the history of these times comes to be written, President Nasser's refusal of the plan brought to him by the committee of five will be quoted as a classic example of how a man threw away a great chance of permanently benefitting his people."

Prime Minister Eden has said that the western partners will try to solve the difficulty without resort to the United Nations. But that body is being kept informed, and failure to find a solution to Suez could result in application to the Security Council for action.

Unfortunately, the prospects of quick U.N. action, even in so critical a matter as the Suez controversy, are not bright. With Russia holding a veto on the Council, the talks obviously would be lengthy and doomed to failure unless Soviet requirements were met.

Sir Anthony raises an important point in his reference to the appeasement era of the immediate pre-war years. He has a telling argument in the historical record—for no serious denial can be made that "giving in" to Hitler and Mussolini in their various demands was a mistake. Each concession led merely to demands for further concessions.

That is what Britain fears in the present situation. If Colonel Nasser wins in his audacious attempt to seize sole control of the Suez canal, what will be the outcome? Will this step satisfy all ambition? Or will it lead—the lion having apparently been proved impotent—to further demands and unilateral moves?

The latter might well be the case, not only as regards Egypt but all the other Middle East countries. The Arab kingdoms, which contain 70 per cent of the world's known reserves of oil, might well decide to launch out on provocative and dangerous policies.

Britain, whose record in governing undeveloped lands and in granting them full independence when they were prepared to manage it is unexcelled in world history, is not bent on hampering the progress of the Arab kingdoms. But that progress, considering the importance of those countries to the world's military and economic strength, must be orderly and peaceful. The situation is too delicate to permit of sudden seizures and overnight coups, in the Nasser style. World security, as well as national, is at stake.

Therefore the handling of Colonel Nasser's challenge is of universal importance. The consequences of western success or failure will be far-reaching.

Opposition Leader Gaitskill has voiced strong criticism of the British Government's plan. "We are asserting the view that each nation decides in its own right what it is going to do. We are saying that only power counts," he told the Commons. "Does it mean that the Government is prepared to risk what might even become a general war merely over this issue?"

But the Prime Minister's reply was equally blunt. "Once again," he said, "we are faced with what is in fact an act of force which, if it is not resisted, if it is not checked, will lead to others. . . . The consequences of this would be that the standard of life of western Europe and many lands in Asia would be at Colonel Nasser's mercy."

Prime Minister Eden stands at an important crossroads—a fact which he well recognizes, and which is clearly manifested in the sober warnings of a man who so thoroughly hates war. It is gratifying that at this critical point the United States and France are solidly with him. Here is a classic case of unity and strength being synonymous.

Handsome Gesture

LIUTENANT-GOVERNOR ROSS has made a handsome gesture in guaranteeing the costs of sending the University of British Columbia's four-oared crew to the Olympic Games.

Without his support this group of British Columbia athletes could not have been included in the Canadian team, although its performance in the trials was excellent.

Perhaps the arrangements are an outcome of the magnificent victory scored by the U.B.C. eight in the British Empire Games in Vancouver. At that time the crew not only made athletic history, but placed the university among the leaders in rowing.

It is gratifying to learn that the four of this year is impressive enough to warrant a trip to Australia—and even more gratifying to find British Columbia's Lieutenant-Governor prepared to see that they get there.

Praise for Commissionaires

MEMBERS OF THE CANADIAN Corps of Commissionaires operating in the Victoria area have received an accolade of some significance. According to the president of the national organization, the group here forms the best division in all Canada.

This is high praise indeed. It will do much to maintain the standard of performance rendered by the agency which finds employment for certain veterans of older age categories and of specific character qualifications.

As they proceed efficiently about their business they may very properly hold their heads high and shoulders squared—as they do in any event with a justifiable sense of pride in their organization.

An Unwanted Honor

CANADIANS WILL HAVE NO pride in their current leadership of the world—in per capita fire losses. Figures presented to the annual conference of the Canadian Association of Fire Chiefs, in Vancouver, show that in 1952 this country suffered a yearly fire loss of $3.86 for each man, woman and child. That rate was the highest in the world. Today the rate is much higher—$7.60.

The loss of life due to fires in Canada during the past ten years, according to a United Nations report, totalled 4,856. About 16,000 persons were seriously injured by fires, and property damage amounted to $800 millions.

These are totals that should occasion serious thought. They show the terrible toll that can be taken by fire. And since many fires are the result of carelessness and negligence, much of the remedy appears to lie in the hands of the public.

Science and Hot Air

A FEW MONTHS AGO CAME the suggestion from Russia that the Behring Strait be dammed and warmer Pacific water be pumped into the Arctic to soften the iron clutch of winter. Later came the proposal that the Antarctic icecap be carved into bergs and towed to deserts where they would melt and bring the fertility of irrigation.

Now the possibility of diverting tropical heat to colder zones to warm them in the winter is discussed by

Prof. A. A. Miller before the British Association for the Advancement of Science. Nature already makes a somewhat inefficient transfer of such warmth by means of ocean currents, he points out. And to this he adds: "An efficient machinery is not yet in sight. But who shall say in this technological age that anything is impossible tomorrow?"

Who indeed? But in the meantime, have you checked your fuel supply lately?

THE CCF aim is the establishment by democratic means of a co-operative commonwealth in which the supplying of human needs and the enrichment of human life come first. Private profit and corporate power must be subordinated to social planning designed to achieve equality of opportunity and the highest possible living standards for all Canadians.

STRACHAN

By ARTHUR LAING, Leader of the Liberal Party

'To Assure Integrity in Government'

OUR party's 12-point program will assure integrity in government and save millions in taxes and hundreds of millions in natural resources for the people of B.C.

Direct savings will come immediately from a 20 per cent cut in the sales tax, a reduction in car licence fees to $10 and removal of the tax on amateur sports and amusements.

Additional savings will come when we put an end to political patronage and patchwork construction of public works and when we start a realistic program to prevent the ruin of B.C. farmers and the consequent serious rise in the cost of many food products.

Still greater savings—all helping to increase the buying power of our people and therefore our prosperity—will come when we put an end to back door deals and giveaways of our natural resources.

We will establish an economic development commission—a team of experts, keeping a close and constant check on resources and advising on the best ways to use them for maximum benefit of all citizens.

LAING

By DEANE FINLAYSON, Leader of the Progressive Conservative Party

'Political Courage, Honesty and Principle'

THE Conservatives are building their party in British Columbia on three basic beliefs. We hope that our conduct in this election and among our new membership on the floor of the Legislature after it, will speak louder than words to show our ideals.

They are political courage, political honesty and political principle. Our aim is to have the courage to fight for government guided by simple honesty and based on what we believe to be sound proven principles.

In the first place, we are not a party "left of centre." We will not pretend to be one for the sake of wheeling a few additional votes. We believe in the developed and proven system of Canadian capitalism—as opposed to 19th century exploitation capitalism.

We believe in the accepted and tested principles of democratic government, including the parliamentary system, freedom of speech and discussion, the equality of the law and the fact that each ordinary individual person is in himself a more important being than any company, union or government. These institutions, after all, should exist only to serve and not to master, the individual personality.

In this political principle we acknowledge we do not appear to differ sharply from what is claimed to be the stand of the Social Credit party, but we are proud to distinguish ourselves from the left wing or semi-socialist stands taken by the Liberal and CCF parties.

In the second place, we believe strongly in open, truthful government, and here we sharply contrast ourselves to the Social Credit party. This group has not the simple honesty to admit to itself and the people that it is in fact a powerful political party. It has not the honesty to place before the people its whole record, even when it specifically seeks election on that record.

It has not the honesty to admit to the people that it employs what is, to say the least, a highly unusual system of government accounting and fiscal terminology. And it has not had the honesty to face up to what has become by far the most important single issue in this campaign, the Sommers-Sturdy affair.

Finally, we believe that courage to speak and stand for what is right is the most important single need in politics. Without the courage of conviction all the lofty principles and high ideals in the world will not bring to the people good government. We think it is clear that both the other opposition parties, CCF and Liberal, could have and should have exposed the Sommers case to the people. We think it is equally clear that they lacked the courage to do so.

Because of their own weakness we say the CCF and Liberal parties have forfeited any right they may have had to be the

'A Positive Plan for the Good of Everyone'

THE Social Credit Government has put ideas into action. This government does not sit back and criticize while opportunities are being lost. It has a positive plan for the good of everyone. In four years, Social Credit:

1. Completed the southern extension of the Pacific Great Eastern (one of its most important links) and started its northward extension.

2. Inaugurated the most extensive highway and bridge-building program in the history of the province.

3. Administered the huge hydro-electric resources of the province in the best interests of all the citizens.

4. Reduced the net debt of the province by more than $70,000,000.

5. Eliminated hospital insurance premiums and brought to an end the confusing, embarrassing and unfair collection.

6. Established the highest pensions in Canada for those deserving citizens who need them.

7. Two weeks' vacation with pay guaranteed by law.

8. Introduced a common-sense handling of the labor problem, and brought about a new era in labor-management relationships.

9. One of the main objectives of the Social Credit administration is the reduction of taxes and toward this end it has already:

(a) Reduced car licences.
(b) Granted exceptions under the sales taxes to assist those who need it.
(c) Lowered the amusement tax.

(d) Eliminated taxes on meals up to and including $1.

(e) Cut motor vehicle registration fees by 90 per cent.

10. Made possible the development of an oil and natural gas industry, and modernized the administration of our forest and mineral resources.

11. Created the Capital City grant for the beautification of Victoria.

During its next term of office your Social Credit Government will:

(1) Pay $28 each year of every homeowner's taxes.

(2) Continue its record-breaking highway building program including:

(a) Extension of the Island Highway to Port Hardy.

(b) Complete the Trans-Canada Highway from Field to Victoria.

(c) Build the northern Trans-Provincial Highway from Prince Rupert to Alberta.

(d) Complete the southern Trans-Provincial Highway.

(e) Construct the Yellowhead Pass Highway from Kamloops to Alberta.

(f) Continue landscaping on Cariboo Highway and all other main highways.

(3) Complete the northern extension of the P.G.E. into the Peace River area, in its progress northward.

(4) Establish a new department of government that will bring the tremendous outdoor recreational resources of the province within the reach of all.

(5) Continue an effective and extensive program of assistance to B.C.'s farmers.

(6) Will take resolute steps toward the establishment of a steel industry, and will press a continuing survey of the coal and iron ore resources of the province.

(7) Bring the attention of the world to the unlimited potentialities of the province through a well-organized centennial celebration throughout British Columbia.

(8) Will continue to provide the best schools and the best educational system in Canada.

(9) Will maintain its successful policy of attracting industry and private investment to our province—a policy that has brought the economic growth of B.C. to the highest point in its history.

be built on the Fraser River until the problem of preserving and protecting the fishing industry has been fully solved.

To preserve the beauty of our streams and lakes by allowing only selective logging along their banks.

To widen hospital insurance coverage to include diagnostic services, full care of chronics and the dependents of service personnel. To provide for pensioners complete hospital and medical coverage, including optical and dental services. To exempt from the "means test" the first $2,000 value of a pensioner's property.

To establish public car insurance at cost which will protect every person—car owner, passenger, pedestrian and their families, involved in accidents. To provide at cost a complete insurance coverage—the kind of insurance that cannot be bought at any price in B.C. today.

To establish a highway commission to build roads and highways on a province-wide basis, free from political patronage and other political pressure.

The CCF will not rest content until every person in this land is able to enjoy freedom and equality of opportunity, a sense of human dignity, and a chance to live a rich and meaningful life as a citizen of a free and peaceful world.

This is the co-operative commonwealth which the CCF invites the people of British Columbia to build with vision and pride. This is the program and policy which we invite you to support when you vote CCF on Sept. 19.

view of the entire program and the Liberal Party will undertake this in co-operation with the Federal Department of Health and Welfare with a view to vastly improving the health and happiness of our senior citizens and handicapped people.

We also have plans for youth who, in our view, constitute the greatest asset in our province. We will establish a separate department to aid youth in education, sports, the arts and all their endeavours and to combat the ever-growing problem of juvenile delinquency. In this ministry also, we will include increased development of tourism, recreation, fish and game.

To assure integrity in government, we will re-establish true and conventional methods of stating B.C.'s debt and financial position. We will restore the authority of municipal councils and school boards.

We will respect the democratic function of the Opposition because criticism is a symbol of our free society without which there can be no progress.

opposition in Victoria. A spineless opposition is a useless opposition; a courageous opposition is a real opposition. It is to serve this simple truth that we ask in this election the people's mandate to form the next opposition in British Columbia.

These three things—principle, honesty and courage—are the basis of our party and our campaign. They are the principles that we have required in our candidates. Men like Dr. Brock Chisholm in Esquimalt, Justin Harbord in Oak Bay, Monty Drake in Victoria and Hugh Henderson in Saanich are men whose principles, honesty and, above all, courage can never be doubted.

We have made no irresponsible promises in this campaign of tax cuts or popular giveaways. We have honestly stated in our published platform 17 practical measures which we are prepared to say now should be urged on the Assembly floor. But we have specifically rejected demands urged upon us as politically expedient when we believe them to be wrong—as, for example, the current request of certain organizers of labor unions to be exempted from the general rule of court injunction against illegal acts. This we have opposed.

Principle, honesty and courage, this is the basis of the new and rising Conservative party in British Columbia.

BENNETT

Community Hall, Sept. 1956

LOOK. The lights are on in the little wooden community hall. See the cars and trucks parked on the grassy edge of the street.

A political meeting with all the candidates on the platform? Democracy in action? A good old free-for-all?

Come on, let's skip the movie. There's more spectator fun right here than in anything Hollywood can produce.

See, there are their faces on those placards.

That poor chap. Someone's given him spectacles and larger ears. A political opponent did it? No I don't think so. Probably just a naughty boy having fun on his way home from school.

And, fooling apart, I enjoy this kind of political meeting put on by some non-partisan group that sincerely wants to educate the voters.

I like the familiar pattern of it—the little wooden hall that, in non-election times, is used by Women's Institute or Dairymen's Association. Here, in this little room to one side, young Canadians who will be voters one day are periodically examined by the health nurse, and hawl and kick on the baby-weight scales. Here, the Old Age Pensioners meet from time to time. Here there are square dances every Saturday night. Here, too, are community plays in which young and old take part.

The hall seems to me so much a part of the community that it's an ideal place to hold an all-candidate, pre-election meeting.

I like to see the battered, assorted chairs brought in from various places, and the hard, hard benches for those who weren't wise enough to get there early.

I like the bare and unpretentious platform with the little cubicle on either side, the naked light bulb innocent of fancy shade, the upright piano on which an efficient but anonymous woman pounds out "O Canada" and "God Save the Queen."

I suppose the pattern varies a little from place to place but, in nearly all such meetings that I've been to, there's the same reluctance to sit in the front row, the same sort of cheapish glass jug of water and single tumbler from which all the candidates gulp at intervals. (Putting the good of the country ahead of all thoughts of hygiene!)

Study them well, these men who are running for office. Think of the parties they represent.

Bang! Bang! There goes the gavel. Quite right, too. Let the fellow say his piece. The other speakers will spike that particular bit of nonsense. And if they don't, you'll have a chance to heckle and put him on the spot in the question period.

Oh, how sincerely they hope that they may take us to the Promised Land where benefits rain down from the party heaven. And, as one, apparently, will have to pay a cent!

Question period? Yes, 40 minutes, the chairman said. Now we'll really have some fun. The loaded questions, the planted question, the question from the spokesman of some particular pressure group—we'll have them all.

Oooh, he didn't answer that one! Side-stepped neatly. Pretty slick.

Ha! Ha! What a joke. What an unfortunate expression. Now watch someone turn his words back against him.

Ah, good show. He's recovered his mental balance and parried the retort really, very well. Think fast on his feet and doesn't lose his temper.

Who's that fellow with the pugilistic nose who keeps saying "Rot" at intervals?

For Heaven's sake, why doesn't that questioner put the question instead of rambling on all night and making a political speech on his own?

Bang! Bang! There goes the gavel yet again. I guess this is what you'd call a lively meeting.

But thank goodness it is alive and lively. Wouldn't it be dreadful to have only government-appointed candidates, to have no watchdog opposition, to have no say in the running of our affairs?

Too bad those visiting Russians weren't taken to some little community hall, and given a chance to watch democracy in action.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

New Book on Diabetes

Dr. Walter C. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

Dr. Garfield G. Duncan has just published a good little book, full of information needed by diabetic patients (Saunders). On page 85 there is an interesting diagram showing how diabetes is inherited. If a diabetic marries a non-diabetic who has no diabetes in the family, and the couple have four children, all can be carriers. If two diabetics marry, all their four children can be diabetics.

If a diabetic marries an apparently normal carrier of diabetes, two of the children can be diabetic and two can be carriers. If two carriers marry, two of four children can be carriers, one can be a diabetic and one can go free. His (or her) children need not fear diabetes (unless it comes in from the spouse).

One of the most important things that people can learn today, and especially those who come of families in which there is hereditary illness, is that there are such things as carriers. Carriers are people who, while they may never develop any of the symptoms of the family disease, can pass it on to some of their children. Often carriers can be recognized with special tests, or they have a few minor symptoms or signs of the trouble.

A descendant of diabetics will do well to avoid overweight, because obesity is so likely to bring out the latent disease. Obviously, whenever a person has a hereditary disease, or is a carrier of a hereditary disease, he (or she) will do well to avoid marrying into a family in which the disease is latent. Such a marriage is almost certain to produce some children who will suffer.

BITTER LETTERS

I hope that I do not now receive a number of bitter letters from people who will accuse me of telling them that they cannot marry or have children. As I have said before, a marriage counsellor never tells people what they must or must not do. He tells them only what the dangers are, and then they must decide whether or not they want to run the risk of bringing into the world one or two or three children who are almost certain to suffer grievously.

Many a descendant of diabetics asks today, "How can I find out if I am a carrier?" The answer is that there are a number of tests which will enable an expert laboratory man to say if a person or one of his children is a potential diabetic.

On page 147 of Dr. Duncan's book there is a picture of the identification card which persons with severe diabetes will do well to carry. It gives the name and address and the name and phone number of the person's physician. It tells what type of insulin the patient is taking, and how much each day. On one side of the card it says, "If unconscious or behaving abnormally, I may be having an insulin reaction. If I can swallow, give me sugar, candy, fruit juice or a sweetened drink. If I am unable to swallow, or if recovery does not take place promptly, call a physician or send me to a hospital at once."

On page 157 there are illustrations showing two types of automatic injectors which cause a hypodermic needle to spring into the person's tissues. This makes it easier for the person who finds it very hard to push a needle through his skin.

On page 165 there is a description of the newest and most convenient test for sugar in the urine. A little piece of prepared tape is dipped into the fluid. It is removed, allowed to stand for a minute, and then the amount of sugar can be estimated from the color assumed by the tape.

MOLDS, FUNGI HIT LUNGS

In the last 50 years we physicians have found a number of diseases of the lungs which are due to molds or fungi. Often the picture in the x-ray films is sufficiently different from that of tuberculosis so that an expert can recognize it. Oftentimes, examination of the sputum by an expert will show the presence of large amounts of a certain mold, or the mold can be cultured from the sputum. These molds are particularly likely to affect persons who live in certain parts of the United States.

Unfortunately, for most of the molds we have no very satisfactory treatment. The important thing for a person with a questionable disease of the lungs is to see, if possible, an expert in diseases of the chest.

Museum Poster Contest Open to District Children

A poster competition among school children in Greater Victoria is being sponsored by the Provincial museum in conjunction with International Museum Week to be observed across Canada between October 7 and 13.

Dr. Clifford Carl, director of the museum, said the best two posters will be submitted to a committee in Ottawa for final judging and a prize awarded to the winner.

In addition, he said special prizes may be awarded to winners in a local competition. The posters will also be displayed at the museum.

Children are being asked to paint posters on the theme "Visit Your Museum." They can illustrate the poster with any object, such as birds or flowers, as well as Indian symbols. All entries must be submitted to the school board office by September 28.

Six to 12 Varieties Are Plenty

The average home garden is not the place to accommodate hundreds of spring-flowering bulbs for a mass effect.

Since the lawn is the feature of the front garden and the flowers are secondary in narrow borders around it, six or 12 bulbs of a dozen varieties is about the limit.

Whether an attractive effect will, or will not, result next spring depends on how the bulbs are placed this fall.

Until we realize one of the fundamentals of landscaping we tend to spread one kind of plant over as great an area as possible by dotting them here and there along the borders. In this way we lose the individual beauty of the plants, an important point which would have been enhanced had we used groups of the one kind.

This is especially true of the spring-flowering bulbs such as crocus, bulbous iris, narcissi (all daffodils), and tulips.

A dozen flowers of one kind of the newer large daffodils or the brightly colored tulips command attention, impress one with the form of the flower, and make a brilliant spot of color, effects which are not created by a single bloom.

Whether the group effect is obtained by planting the bulbs in a geometrical circle or square, or in a natural drift, will depend on the space and the number of bulbs of the one kind available.

Applying the group principle to all narrow border planting may give the effect we have long been seeking.

Election Campaigns are like whirlwind courtships. They find themselves neglected by both ... until the next campaign.

Our idea of "going steady" is to keep wooing buyers week after week, day after day from this space, & then to keep courting them, after they're won. Recently tho, some have felt "neglected," and that's because we haven't been geared to handle the avalanche of customers we've "wooed" into our bower. This ... we are fixing.

A Personal Message from GIBBS

OUR CANDIDATE FOR OAK BAY

Dear Neighbour:

It is my firm conviction that it is a citizen's duty to place at the disposal of his community any special talents he may possess. As a former councillor and Reeve of Oak Bay and as your M.L.A. since 1952 I can claim a comprehensive knowledge of public affairs, with the experience and ability to fight for your interests through sound, planned legislation, while maintaining the dignity and integrity essential as your representative.

Should you re-elect me September 19th, the following are among the reforms I shall unceasingly work for:

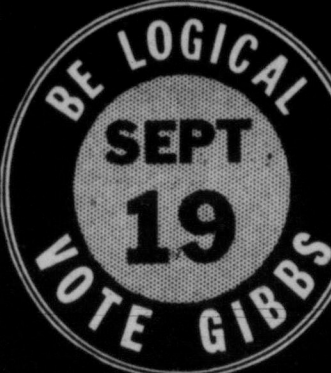

1. Reduction of taxes—with immediate 1% cut in Sales Tax.
2. A larger share of Provincial revenues allocated for Municipal grants.
3. Maintenance of our educational system at highest levels.
4. Protection of our natural resources, forest, fisheries and power.
5. Restoration of a full time Labour Relations Board.
6. Creation of a Youth Affairs Department under the jurisdiction of one of the cabinet ministers.
7. Active development of the Tourist Industry with full recognition of fish and game potentialities.
8. Creation of a non-political Highways Construction Advisory Board.

In respectfully soliciting your vote, I assure you I will work to attain those objectives, and will support the forward looking program of the Party which I represent.

Sincerely,
P. A. GIBBS.

ILLNESS MORE SERIOUS THAN FIRST THOUGHT?

Drew's Health Arouses Concern
With Crucial Election Looming

By VICTOR T. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent
OTTAWA — Conservative leader George Drew's sudden return to Canada from a holiday in Bermuda to enter hospital has aroused grave concern here as to whether his illness is of a more serious nature than was at first believed.

National Conservative headquarters revealed here Tuesday that Mr. Drew had unexpectedly returned and entered Toronto's Wellesley Hospital for a further short period of rest. He has been away from his office in the House of Commons due to illness and fatigue since the latter part of July. He left Ottawa about 10 days before the close of the last session of Parliament.

Mr. Drew was exhausted by the long and strenuous session and particularly by the bitter debate that ensued over the pipeline legislation.

RETURNED

He suffered from an attack of influenza, and after throwing that off returned to his desk in the Commons briefly, but had to take time off from the House to have an infected tooth extracted. His doctors ordered him to leave immediately for a rest despite the fact the House was still in session.

Later Mr. Drew entered the Neurological Institute in Montreal for a check-up. Dr. Harry T. C. Whitey of Ottawa, Mr. Drew's personal physician here, said his patient entered the Montreal centre because it was equipped to check on any possible recurrence of the meningitis attack that struck when Mr. Drew in November, 1954.

CLEAN BILL

Originally, Mr. Drew planned to stay in Bermuda for two or three weeks. He left for that holiday spot on August 26 after being discharged from the Montreal institute with a clean bill of health but with the warning that he required considerable rest.

Mr. Drew at 62 years of age is facing one of the most crucial general elections in the history of the Conservative party. His associates stress that the doctors are anxious to have Mr. Drew obtain all the rest he can

DEMOCRAT LEADS 3 TO 2
IN WASHINGTON PRIMARY

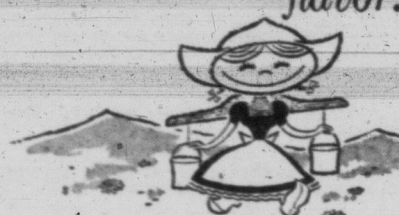

SEATTLE (AP)—Voters who showed a strong Democratic tinge in nearly all major races except those for congressional nominations in the six districts, gave Senator Warren G. Magnuson a lead of more than 150,000 over Republican Governor Arthur B. Langlie in their "popularity contest" in Tuesday's statewide primary. Magnuson and Langlie will contest for the U.S. Senate seat held by the former. The election is Nov. 6.

Magnuson's ever-widening margin over Langlie reached a 426,355 to 275,898 edge in the continuing count early today.

Braves Bounce Back

Again Lead Brooks; Reds Lose Ground

By the Associated Press
Milwaukee Braves call it "the biggest one yet."

Brooklyn Dodgers kiss it off with a "so what?"

They both could be right about that humdinger of a comeback. A 7-1 victory the Braves grabbed from the Dodgers at Ebbets Field Wednesday, regaining undisputed possession of first place in the National League race.

Whether they were punchy from pennant pressure, the victory definitely was "the biggest one yet" for the Braves. It had to pick them up, relax some of the tension as they moved into Philadelphia for a two-night doubleheader tonight against the Phillies—only club in the league with an edge, 8-10, over the Braves.

DODGERS NOT HURT
But the Dodgers, idle today, had a point too. "It didn't hurt us. We were one game down when they came to town, and we're only one game down now. They had to win it. But so what? There's 15 games left."

If any club was hurt by the decision, it was Cincinnati. The third place Redlegs, also with 15 games left, fell three games behind while being held to just three singles by Johnny Antonelli in an 8-0 loss to the New York Giants.

Chicago Cubs defeated Pittsburgh 3-0 in the only other league game scheduled.
New York Yankees and Kansas City Athletics, walloping three between them, erased the American League's one-season home-run record set in 1950 at 973 as the A's beat the league leaders 7-4.

EARLY WYNN HELPS
Early Wynn helped set the mark, slugging his first home run of the season for his 17th victory as second-place Cleveland beat Baltimore 2-1. Boston took third place from Chicago, defeating the White Sox 4-1. Detroit made it six in a row, beating Washington 3-2.

Billy Bruton, a 268 disappointment with only 46 runs batted in for the Braves, and Joe Adcock, a regular Dodger tormenter, drove in five runs between them as Bob Buhl, one of 11 pitchers in the game, came back in relief after losing 4-2 Tuesday night to gain his 17th victory and become the third ever to beat Brooklyn eight times in one year.

Adcock's 37th home run, with a man on, broke a 4-4 tie in the sixth. It was his 13th against the Dodgers, matching the league record against one club set by Chicago's Hank Saut against Pittsburgh in 1954.

CAMPY HITS HOMER
Roy Campanella hit his 18th for the Braves and Del Crandall, who wound up with a 12-10 edge in the season series between the two clubs.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Centre Gordie Pennell was assigned to Vancouver Canucks of the Western Hockey League Wednesday following a National Hockey League deal between New York and Chicago.
Pennell and Jim Conacher changed clubs. Pennell went to the Rangers and was placed on the Canuck roster for the 1956-57 season.

Magee Upset Leader As Favorites Tumble

LAKE FOREST, Ill. (AP)—Canada's Gerry Magee Wednesday led a cascade of upsets by topping Walker Cup ace Don Cherry 3 and 2 in the fourth round of the United States amateur golf championship.

The wave of reversals cut down the favored Ken Venturi by David Roos, 1 up, in the morning third round and eliminated Cherry and two of his Walker Cup champions—Billy Joe Patton and Dale Morey—in the afternoon.

Defending champion Harvie Ward Jr. escaped a similar fate through a stirring comeback in which he birdied two of the last three holes to beat collegian Frank Boynton of Orlando, Fla., 1 up.

Ward, 1949 champion Charlie Coe and Walker Cup captain Bill Campbell were the only big name survivors left as the field was reduced to 16.

Magee, 22-year-old Toronto automobile salesman, and runner-up in this year's Canadian amateur, turned up as the tournament darkhorse with the win over Cherry, which came on the heels of the Canadian's victory in the best match of the third round.

SUB-PAR DUEL
In the third Magee engaged in a sub-par duel with Frank Wharton of Dallas, Tex., and won 1 up on a 68. Wharton shot a 69 over the 6,790-yard, par-71 course, yet failed to survive. Magee goes in the fifth round against Neil Croonquist, Winnipeg insurance salesman, who was a 4 and 2 winner over Ralph Ellstrom.

Ward was three down at one stage. He sank a 15-foot putt on the 16th hole to square the match, laid a tee shot 18 inches from the pin on the 190-yard 17th to go one up and then halved the 18th in par.

Marlene Wach Winner
WINNIPEG (CP)—Marlene Wach of Niakwa Country Club won the 1956 Manitoba ladies' open golf championship Wednesday with an 8 to 7 triumph over Donna Paffon of St. Charles in the 36-hole final.

All players are in good shape for the final, with the possible exception of Whipper, who is nursing a bad knee, but who should be ready for the first game.

The club will start a porch-light fund-raising campaign tonight in Nanaimo to raise the minimum of $3,000 needed to send the Timbersmen east.

According to president Rafter, about $4,000 was needed to send the club away, but $3,000 was the absolute minimum. Timbersmen are scheduled to leave Friday night at 7 o'clock whether or not the Nanaimo fans kick through with the required total.

Jack Melville of Victoria Press led a clean sweep of Victorians in the annual Vancouver Island Chartered Accountants' Golf Tournament at Nanaimo Saturday.

Melville won the low gross championship, while other Victoria winners were J. Tarrant, C. Wesson and R. J. Middleton.

SIR GORDON CHARMED; JOHNNY SCRATCHED

Big Half-Pints Meet

DONCASTER, England (AP)—Two of the smallest big men in horse racing met at the Doncaster thoroughbred sales Wednesday—America's Johnny Longden and Britain's Sir Gordon Richards.
It was Richards, 54, who spotted Longden, also 54, in the bustling crowd at the sales.
The dapper pint-sized knight of the British turf pushed his way through the crowd to reach the American jockey.
He grabbed Longden's hand and said: "Congratulations, Johnny. It's a great performance. And I'm sure you have many more winners under your saddle."

Carmen's Victory 'Sweet', Decisive

Basilio Regains Welter Title

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Carmen Basilio, apparently as tough and destructive as ever, wore the welterweight crown again today after annihilating Johnny Saxton for the sweetest win of my life.

"This was the one I wanted to win more than any other," said the craggy-faced, 23-year-old Basilio following his technical knockout at 1:31 of the ninth round over the cocky, 26-year-old defending champion in War Memorial Auditorium Wednesday night.

"I beat him in Chicago and got robbed, this was my answer. If he wants to fight me again, I'm willing. I fight for money. I'll fight Ray Robinson, too, for the middleweight title, if Saxton has had enough. I agreed to give Saxton a return fight and he can have it anywhere but in Chicago."

Even with his lopsided triumph, Carmen still is burning over the unanimous but controversial decision which Saxton scored over him in Chicago last March 14. That not only cost the ex-marine the title but a lucrative outdoor money match with middleweight King Ray Robinson. Now he hopes to get a crack at Sugar Ray before long.

SAXTON WILLING
"I want the fight and I'll beat him the next time," said Saxton through swollen lips. A bandage covered the left side of his mouth where nine stitches were required to sew up a wide long gash that had spurted blood during the one-sided fray.

"I fought his fight—not mine," the dethroned New Yorker said bitterly. "The boogie of the crowd upset me. Instead of boxing him like I did the last time and like I planned to do again, I went out and slugged with him. I wanted to show those fans. Next time I'll fight for Johnny Saxton and win my way."

Basilio's vengeful pounding was thorough. Gaunt and with his ribs showing through his taut skin, the 146½-pound local pride took charge in the third round with a slashing body and head attack that had Saxton bloody, reeling and helpless in the ninth round when referee Al Berli halted the massacre.

Frank Blinky Palermo, Saxton's unlicensed manager, protested at ringside that the referee shouldn't have stopped it. "The referee should have let him hit the deck like a champion should," said Palermo.

Basilio, 146½ to Saxton's 145½ pounds, had been the favorite all week but ringside reports indicated Saxton had gone into the ring as the 7-to-5 betting choice.

Basilio had to agree to a rematch within 90 days to get the chance at the title. Palermo said he would let him to it.

"The return will be wherever Saxton wants it," he said. "California, Philadelphia or maybe Boston. Basilio can't fight anywhere else because he's got $50,000 in escrow to guarantee it."

In Basilio's dressing room, there was jubilation in the air. "He came to me for a while," said Carmen. "I didn't have to go after him like in Chicago."

Asked if he was surprised by this change of tactics, Basilio said: "No; we figured he was going to come at us."

Saxton blamed his defeat on the same mistake. "I tried to fight the fans' right," he said. "They don't want you to run."

Galiffa Argo Story —Als Tumble Riders

By the Canadian Press
Montreal Alouettes are back to form with their explosive late-game offensive and Toronto Argonauts are still full of surprises.

The Als, as surprised as anybody when whipped 51-28 by Argonauts last Saturday, overpowered Ottawa Rough Riders 36-21 Wednesday in their Big Four football game. They accomplished it with a three-touchdown blitz in the final quarter after trailing 21-14.

A few hours later Argonauts, near collapse under a great running attack by Hamilton Tiger-Cats, came to life on the sensational passing of quarterback Arnie Galiffa and the catching of Al Pfeiffer to snatch a 22-21 win over Ticats.

TWO TD PASSES

Galiffa, a worthy substitute for Tom Dubinski, Toronto's injured first-string quarterback, fired two touchdown passes to Pfeiffer and completed 21 of his 35 tosses.

The results left Alouettes alone in first place in the league race with eight points. Tiger-Cats are second with six points. Argonauts follow with four, then Ottawa with two.

At Montreal, the Rough Riders appeared on their way to their second win of the 1956 season when quarterback Sam Etcheverry threw two long touchdown passes to Joe Pat to put the Als in front.

Alouettes, who have lost only one of their five games, made it safe with Etcheverry's single and a touchdown by halfback Pat Abruzzi, his second of the day.

Each team scored a converted touchdown in the first quarter and from then until the fourth the Als were always driving from behind while the crowd of 19,463 was in an uproar.

PATTERSON SCORES

End Hal Patterson scored the first Montreal touchdown early in the first quarter. Bill Bewley converted all the touchdowns.

Halfbacks Carl Hilzinger, Tom Adams and end Bob Simpson scored the Ottawa touchdowns. Don St. John converted two and kicked a single.

Quarterback Hal Ledyard and Simpson were the stars in the Ottawa drive that had the Als somewhat baffled for three quarters. Ledyard, who completed 18 of 33 pass attempts, hit Simpson with 11 tosses.

Ledyard made 307 yards passing as against 252 for Etcheverry, who completed 19 of his 29 heaves.

At Hamilton 19,153 customers sat in amazement as Argonauts, making miserable headway on a ground attack early in the game, took to the air to overtake Ticats' 14-0 lead.

The Scullers made only seven yards in line plays in the first half. In addition to Pfeiffer's two touchdowns, halfback Bobby Kuntz, a native of Kitchener, Ont., scored a touchdown by bulging his way over from the Hamilton 14-yard line in the third quarter. Mike Falls converted three touchdowns and Hamilton quarterback Nobby Wirkowski was tackled behind the goal line by guard Freddie Black to provide Argonauts with a two-point safety touch.

WIRKOWSKI SHARP

Wirkowski threw touchdown strikes to end Howard Schnelberger from the University of Kentucky, half Tex Robinson of Temple University and Davey West of Calgary.

Davidson Meets Hoad In Net Final

TORONTO (CP)—Sven Davidson of Sweden will get a chance to settle an old score against Lew Hoad of Australia today when they meet in the singles final of the international invitation tennis tournament.

The score, to be exact, was 6-6, 6-4, 6-6, and it was by that margin that Hoad defeated Davidson to win the French title in Paris earlier this year. Hoad, however, is the favorite. During the week-long tournament 100 ranking tennis stars from 13 countries battled for five titles.

Hoad Wednesday defeated Luis Ayala of Chile, 6-6, 6-4, in semi-finals competition while Davidson defeated Hamilton Richardson of Baton Rouge, La., 6-4, 6-4.

NEGRO GIRL WINS

Althea Gibson, five-foot-11 New York City girl, won the women's singles, beating Shirley Bloomer of England, 6-3, 6-1.

Davidson later teamed with Ayala and fought a six-set semi-final with Herb Flam and Richardson, winning 7-5, 4-6, 10-8.

Vampires Unknown Quantity

Meet Drakes Friday In City Grid Contest

Mayo Vampire coach Ray Mitchell confesses, "My 20-20 vision just isn't good enough to see into the future. I can't say how we'll do against the Drakes Friday."

But Vampires have proved to be a prickly handful in the past and, until Friday night at least, they must be regarded as the unknown quantity of the three-man Victoria Intermediate Football League.

A disciple of young, home-grown talent, Mitchell will have some of the players that he has coached for five years or more, right from the midget and junior ranks.

He has 30 players signed, a thin squad in comparison with Drakes and Navy, but the team could be a dangerous passing aggregation if the receivers can match the passers.

To do the flinging from the split-T, Mitchell can call on two quarterbacks who can hoof it as well as pass. Holdover Wayne Henderson, a battle-tested veteran, is back with the club and Mitchell has picked up Archie Langston, who will complete the cycle with Vampires, having previously played with Drakes and Navy.

A pair of holdover ends, Jim Baldwin and Cliff Hooper will likely be the favorite pass targets. Among the new players that Mitchell will unveil to Friday's fans will be Mel Housley, a 200-pound guard with considerable experience in Vancouver junior circles; 200-pound Roy Harbottle; former Edmonton Wildcat halfback Jack Ready and Cliff Wilkins, a 180-pound defensive end who has been racking up ball carriers in practice scrimmages.

Anchor of the defensive line likely will be 235-pound guard-tackle Gordy Gordienko, a destructive defensive player who is greatly improved since spending a season at B.C. Lions' training camp last year.

Sime Goes Lame Again; Pirie's Kick Too Weak

LONDON (AP)—Dave Sime, Duke's record smashing sprinter who was kept out of the U.S. Olympic trials by an injury, pulled up lame again on his return to competition Wednesday and finished second to West Germany's Manfred Gerner in the 100-metre dash in an international track and field meet.

Gerner, 21-year-old student who is considered Europe's fastest sprinter, was clocked in 10.5 seconds, Sime in 10.7. Sime, holder of the world record at 220 yards, pulled a muscle in his groin and was limping as he crossed the finish line.

It was a similar injury which kept the Duke flash out of the Olympic trials after a sensational winter and spring season. Charlie Pratt of Manhattan College won a 110-metre hurdles race in a blanket finish with Bert Staines of West Germany and Edmund Roundnitska of France. All were timed in 14.3.

Germany's Olympic team defeated a British team in the 1,600-metre relay by two yards. The Germans were timed in 3:07.8 and the British team in 3:08.

Klaus Richtzenhain of East Germany held off a final lap attack by Britain's Gordon Pirie to win the 1,500 metres in 3:43. The world record for the distance is 3:40.6, held by Istvan Rozsavolgyi of Hungary.

Chris Chataway, English four-minute miler, was third, followed by Alan Gordon, also of England.

MICKEY FACES LOSS OF TWO BAT CROWNS

KANSAS CITY (UP)—Mickey Mantle, who started the month with a chance to break Babe Ruth's home run record, is in serious danger today of failing to win two other honors he seemed to have clinched.

Once seemingly a cinch for the batting title, Mantle now leads Ted Williams by only three points—352 to 349—and he leads Al Kaline of the Detroit Tigers in runs batted in by only two—118 to 116. Williams has 16 games left in which to get 53 official at bats and be eligible for the title.

Mantle, meanwhile, has yet to hit a homer this month and now needs 14 in 15 games to set a new mark—a virtually impossible position.

Water Board Buys 5 Vehicles To Beat Increases in Prices

The Greater Victoria Water Board has decided to buy immediately four new cars and a truck because of looming increases in repair service costs and truck prices.

The repair cost boosts are feared as a result of the current mechanics' strike, and a 7 per cent increase in truck prices is expected next week, due to increased steel prices following the recent steel strike.

The board previously had planned to trade in its old vehicles next spring.

Total cost of the purchases will be $10,646.

At a Wednesday meeting, tenders were accepted from: National Motors, one sedan (trade), $1,591; one sedan (trade), $1,686; one 1/2-ton panel (trade), $1,845. Mooney and Sons, one 1/2-ton panel (trade), $1,845; one 2-ton flat deck (trade), $2,740; one 1-ton four-wheel-drive truck (no trade), $2,784.

The new truck will be used by watershed caretakers for patrolling against trespassers.

Water Official To Take Course At Oregon U.

Chief water commissioner for the Greater Victoria Water District, Ronald Upward, will attend a three-day course in microscopic determination of plant and living fresh water life at Oregon University, Corvallis in November.

His attendance was authorized by the water board Wednesday.

Mr. Upward told the board: "Our reservoirs in hot summers thrive with living organisms, some of which some day may be offensive in taste."

He said the course he will attend will aid him in identification of the organisms, which if done early enough means they can be controlled without additional chlorination.

 He will also attend the American Water Works Association convention in Portland.

PROTECT YOUR CREDIT

Debt Can Be Useful If Properly Planned

This is the second of three articles on modern credit rating. The third will appear Friday.

By TONY DICKASON

Credit bureau members, reasonably enough, want their money and are entitled to it.

And for the consumer—there is creative value to useful debts. By way of illustration, where people once paid rent they now mostly pay for mortgage commitments. Ownership of a home gives people a real sense of security.

So there is nothing derogatory about debts; just overdue debts, and this is where the Credit Bureau of Victoria Ltd. acts as a watchdog for members.

People, like the seasons, blow hot and cold creditwise. There is a rapid increase in store charges in August and this month as junior needs new boots and books for school, and in November and December for Christmas.

Christmas accounts handed to the bureau for collection "are just coming through now, but in no increasing volume," bureau co-owner Geoffrey Ellis explains ruefully.

WHO WOULD—WHO COULD

There are two main categories of people who use credit: those who would pay if they could and those who could pay if they would.

In the first instance, the bureau will go to considerable lengths to help them pay off in installments, and will even make arrangements to assist in loans where needed.

The whole collection campaign of the bureau, once it has been asked by the merchant or business house to swing into action, is to get the debtor into the office where the debt or debts can be reasonably discussed.

Preferred, of course, is prompt payment, but then this doesn't and sometime can't always happen.

So, first of all, a fairly gentle notice is sent the man who owes money. It indicates a polite surprise that the sum involved has not yet been paid from the purchaser. The tone of the next note sent the debtor is slightly more firm, and it says distinctly: "Second Notice."

Subsequent notices inquire "why not?" concerning payments, and even go so far as to enclose return addressed envelopes to help the poor, clueless debtor get organized.

LAW LAST RESORT

The court of last resort is the lawyer. The bureau and many merchants are loath to come to this eventuality, perhaps for cost reasons, and certainly for public relations reasons.

Almost invariably if assistance is asked from the bureau, people get it.

But it's a good, sound idea to know just to what extent you can have credit. For a family with two children, who show sensible paying habits, 15 per cent of a $3,500 income would not be considered outrageous.

Group Insurance schemes today greatly relieve the family head of unforeseen costs, so the necessity today to have that

Horses Brought Into B.C. From Diseased Area

A spokesman for the B.C. agriculture department admitted today that horses from the "sleeping sickness" area in Washington have been imported in B.C. recently but only after "the strictest possible precautions" had been taken.

Recently the provincial government approved an order-in-council banning the entry of horses from the area.

The spokesman said no horse had been allowed into B.C. without a guarantee from U.S. federal and state authorities that it was free of the disease and had been vaccinated.

Under control. "Actually," he said, "no new outbreaks of sleeping sickness have been reported in Washington for some time, and the order-in-council banning the import of horses will be rescinded as soon as we can get it before a meeting of the cabinet."

The spokesman said any horses brought from Washington to B.C. racetracks are immediately quarantined and subject to inspection by B.C. veterinarians at all times.

From July 10 to August 25 there were 66 cases of sleeping sickness among horses reported in eastern and central Washington with mortality at 25 per cent.

There were three new cases between Aug. 20 and 25, but officials believe the crisis is now over.

HER LOVE GREW LIKE GREEN GRASS

MINERAL POINT, Wis. (AP)—The swain who emblazoned the name of his true love on a conspicuous hilltop has won her for a bride.

Last spring 21-year-old Jack Kenyon, demonstrating that romance can ennoble even the most notably mundane, inscribed the letters J-U-L-I-E on a quarter-mile strip of southwestern Wisconsin hill—with fertilizer.

As the grass grew green, so did Julie's name, and like the grass, the romance flourished.

Now Mr. and Mrs. Max Feneke announced that their 20-year-old daughter, Julie, had eloped and married Kenyon.

70 Churches Uniting In Evangelist Drive

More than 70 churches in Greater Victoria and surrounding area will unite to stage an eight-day Inter-Church Evangelistic Mission which opens with a mass evangelistic rally in Memorial Arena, Sept. 23.

First large-scale mission to be held here, it will be headed by Welsh evangelist Tom Rees who has been conducting evangelistic missions for the past 20 years in the United States, Canada and England. He will arrive from England Sept. 21.

Feature of the opening rally at the arena will be the largest massing of church choirs in the history of Victoria. Theme of the mission is "Know Christ and Make Him Known."

During the week there will be lunch hour meetings at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, evening meetings at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, evening meetings at Christ Church Cathedral, a women's meeting in Metropolitan Church, and teen-agers meeting in First United Church.

The mission will conclude with a final rally at the arena Sept. 30.

All churches participating have been asked to cancel their Sunday evening services during the mission.

Chairman of the organizing committee is Archbishop Harold E. Sexton and vice-chairman is Dr. F. E. H. James, Metropolitan United Church.

The purpose of the mission is to present the eternal gospel to all people," said Dr. James. "Basically it is not a mission to the people already in the Christian churches of Victoria, but rather to the people of Victoria and sponsored by members of Christian churches."

Coal Shipments Up At Great Lakes Ports

CLEVELAND (AP)—Coal shipments from Lake Erie ports totaled 1,338,095 tons in the week ended Monday, the ore and coal exchange reported Wednesday night. The season total is 31,192,142 tons, some 500,000 tons ahead of 1955.

Bringing Up Baby

WANTS collected by The Sun Under (names of 8)

The many, many warm letters I receive from mothers all over the country are a joy to read and I can't tell you what a pleasure it is to share in the lives of so many wonderful babies. Frequent question that pops up in my mail: "Are you real, or a just-pretend person?" Well, I'm a very much alive, mother of five and bursting-with-pride grandmother of six. If you could see and hear the happy hubbub when the clan gathers, there would be little doubt about how real this family is.

How about you? Many of the homes in this column come from mothers just like you. If you would like to share your suggestions and anecdotes with other mothers, do write me, Mrs. Dan Gerber, Box 4027, Terminal A, Toronto, Ontario.

New dust for the up 'n coming set: Gerber Junior Beef and Noodles with Vegetables and Gerber Junior Chicken Rice Dinner. The Beef and Noodles with Vegetables combines juicy bits of lean beef, tender egg noodles and golden carrot morsels... offers good nourishment in the way of meat, egg and cereal proteins. The Chicken Rice Dinner combines delicate chicken with rice, golden carrot morsels and the full fine flavor of natural chicken broth for just about the happiest, heartiest eating ever.

"Knee-cap" cue. Little overalls worn out at the knees? Why not patch 'em with colored felt, cut in the shape of hearts, flowers or simple animals for a gay and playful touch.

Storage plan. A regulation shoe bag, hung low on the inside of baby's closet door, makes a swell catch-all for your toddler's small toys.

Uproar Follows Sommers Quiz

TRAIL, B.C. (CP)—A political forum turned into an uproar here Wednesday night after the chairman ruled that a question asked of R. E. Sommers, former lands and forests minister, was personal and could not be answered.

The CCF and Progressive Conservative candidates taking part in the forum stormed off the stage during the confusion following the ruling.

Mr. Sommers, Social Credit candidate for Trail-Rossland, decided to attend the forum at the last minute along with his opponents, Sam Muirhead, CCF, Tom McRae, Progressive Conservative, and William Walde, Liberal.

Mrs. Graham-Smith, wife of the CCF campaign manager, asked Mr. Sommers:

"While you were minister of lands and forests did you receive a loan, cash gift, or monies from anyone?"

Chairman James Cameron of the Junior Chamber of Commerce sponsoring the meeting ruled against the question and a cry of "point of order" was taken up by a group.

Mr. Muirhead, leaving the stage, said, "We were gyped in Rossland last night and we're not going to be gyped tonight."

He was followed off the stage by Mr. McRae.

The two candidates said they left the stage because of "unfairness and unjust and improper conduct of the audience."

About 250 attended.

'I Have to Face God One Day'—Gagliardi

VANCOUVER (CP)—Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi challenged a meeting here Wednesday night to question him on the Sommers-Sturdy case but there were no askers.

After receiving no questions on the Sommers-Sturdy issue Mr. Gagliardi said:

"This is an honest government; if it wasn't I wouldn't be with it. After all, I have to face God one day."

At the other meeting, Mr. Gagliardi said Premier Bennett "is a God-fearing man."

The highways minister criticized the press.

He heckled reporters, telling them not to take notes as their stories would not be published.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Noel Murphy, president of the B.C. Social Credit League, Wednesday denied a claim that he had been informed 12 months ago of corruption charges against R. E. Sommers.

Mr. Murphy was replying to a statement made here Tuesday night by Ernest F. Allistone, former president of the Point Grey Social Credit Constituency Association and now Independent candidate in the riding.

Mr. Murphy called on Mr. Allistone to produce proof of his statements or to identify the

CCFer Takes 'Desperate Line'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Les Peterson, Social Credit candidate for Vancouver Centre, said Wednesday that his CCF opponent resorted to a "desperate line" recently when he called Mr. Peterson "dishonorable" before a Chinese audience here.

He was answering charges made by William Giesbrecht and said that "to Chinese people, calling a man dishonorable is about the worst charge you can make."

"It's as bad as calling a man a cheat or a crook, and in their code, you have to prove your point," he said.

SURREY (CP)—Speaker of the House Tom Irwin told a meeting of ratepayers here Wednesday night that "we do not claim to have created the prosperity of this great province."

"We claim to have set up the facilities so that the people of B.C. may benefit from the boom."

The Social Credit government had fulfilled some of the promises of previous governments made more than 30 to 40 years ago and he asked the people to send the Social Credit party government back to Victoria to continue the expansion program.

AIR OF GRACIOUSNESS 'THREATENS' IN NORTH

FORT ST. JOHN, B.C. (CP)—They do things differently in Peace River North riding where an air of graciousness threatens to dominate the election.

Philip F. Tompkins, fiery veteran of the First World War, started it when he pledged support, and that of his many followers, to Margaret L. Murray running as an Independent after she was spurned by the Social Credit movement.

Mr. Tompkins wrote a formal letter pledging support after he himself had been turned down by the Social Credit nominating convention.

Meantime Mrs. Vera W. Loucks, CCF candidate, has taken to campaigning with a copy of her recently-published poems under her arm.

The volume was printed by rival candidate Mrs. Murray, who runs a newspaper.

Social Credit nominee H. E. Roche owns a string of trotting horses and vows the result of the election is as unpredictable as a horse race.

Dr. Thomson Elected United Church Head

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Rev. Dr. James Thomson, elected Wednesday night as moderator of the United Church of Canada, isn't afraid of ambitious schemes.

Immediately after his election to the two-year office, he confided he would like to see all Christian peoples united. But his immediate aim and the task of the United Church, he said, is to minister to the people of Canada.

Dr. Thomson was elected on the fifth ballot after a 90-minute election fight.

STILL HAS BURN

Born in Stirling, Scotland, the 64-year-old minister still retains a trace of a Scottish burr in his voice, although he has been in Canada 26 years. He has been a leading figure in theological teaching in Canada since 1930.

From then until 1937, he was professor of systematic theology of Pine Hill Divinity Hall, Halifax. In 1937 he was appointed president of the University of Saskatchewan. Except for one year service with the CBC during the Second World War, he stayed there until 1949. In that year he became the first dean of divinity at McGill University, Montreal. He still holds that position.

Dr. Thomson says the McGill Divinity School is unique in Canada because it is open to anyone.

AIMED AS BRIDGE

"It is aimed especially as a bridge between the Anglican and United Church students."

He was educated at the University of Glasgow. He interrupted his schooling when the First World War broke out to enlist as a private in the Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders. He rose to the rank of captain.

The final election Wednesday night was between Dr. Thomson and Rev. R. Douglas Smith of Edmonton. Seven persons stood for election—Rev. W. T. R. Flemington, president of Mount Allison University, Sackville, N.B.; Rev. James Finlay, Toronto; Dr. E. Crossley Hunter, Toronto; Dr. Thomson; Rev. E. Melville Aitken, Hamilton; Rev. George Telford, Oshawa; Rev. Norman Coll, Ottawa; and Mr. Smith.

Canada in Trouble If Mid-East Oil Cut

By HARRY L. MARDON
British United Press Staff Correspondent

TORONTO (BUP)—Canada could be in as bad a fix as Western Europe if the Suez dispute resulted in a shutdown of Middle East oil production, it was reliably learned today.

This country, although one of the world's major oil producers, is not self-sufficient at present. It could be; Canada has fabulous untapped reserves of oil. But Eastern Canada relies on imports for most of its craving thirst for oil in all its forms.

Officials at the major oil companies' headquarters here were frankly skeptical when asked if Canada could help the United States and Venezuela supply free world needs if the Arab League nations closed down Middle East output.

NO PLANS

"We are an importing country ourselves," one spokesman said. "As far as we know there are no plans being made for Canada to help out anyone in the event Middle East oil is shut off. We will need help ourselves."

Statistics backed that up. In a representative month this year

Canada produced 9,400,000 barrels of crude oil but consumed 15,500,000 barrels. The difference of 7,100,000 barrels was made up from imports. About 5,000,000 came from Venezuela, nearly 2,000,000 from Arabia and the rest from the United States.

Ironically, however, Canada is capable of producing up to 22,000,000 barrels of oil per month. The reserves are there in a score of major oilfields across the western prairies.

In Dam to Aid Water Supply

Additional annual water supply of 500,000,000 gallons was assured Greater Victoria today by expenditure of only $800.

Greater Victoria Water District officials approved raising Sooke Lake dam by one foot.

Sooke Lake dam now stores 3,000,000,000 gallons, but from May to November runs off about 17,000,000 gallons to city and district use.

Water commissioner David Upward told the board lake storage is almost reduced to nil by autumn. He felt the raising of the dam would assure adequate future water storage in the lake.

The water board also approved expenditure of $3,400 for laying of used pipe in Waugh Creek ditch which channels a flow to Japan Gulch

'Idiotic' Actions of Juror Forces Re-Trial for Murder

(From CP Dispatches)

KAMLOOPS—A murder trial jury was discharged and a new trial ordered at the Kamloops fall assize Wednesday because of what Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson of the British Columbia Supreme Court termed the "idiotic" actions of a juror.

Trial of Gordon Cisco, 17, and Harold William Eusta, 20, charged with murder in the death of Johnny Sampson, 49, was to have entered its third day.

When the hearing opened Wednesday evidence was given that juror Don Slater left his hotel room via a window Tuesday night and was in a position to communicate with other persons.

An RCMP officer on jury guard said he warned Slater that he could not leave the room. He said he was informed a few minutes later by another juror that Slater had gone, and that he left to bring him back, returning the missing juror through the window with the assistance of the other man, Roy Cummings.

After hearing the officer's evidence, Judge Wilson said: "This juror was in a condition in which he may very well have discussed this case. I find this very troublesome. Here we have a man who apparently had been drinking; if he had not been drinking he must be a congenial idiot, who may have had contact with somebody other than members of the jury."

Mr. Justice Wilson said Slater will be brought before him later "so I can determine what action can be taken."

JAILED, THANKS JUDGE

VANCOUVER—A 70-year-old drug addict thanked a Vancouver magistrate when he was sentenced to seven years for drug trafficking Wednesday.

George W. Paradis nodded his approval and murmured "Thanks" when Magistrate Oscar Orr handed down the sentence.

Paradis had asked during the trial that he be committed to the B.C. penitentiary, saying he would rather be in there without the habit than walking the street with it.

FREED FROM JAIL

VANCOUVER—Release of John Martin, 31, serving a nine-month sentence for contempt of court, was ordered in county court here Wednesday.

Judge A. H. J. Swencinsky ordered the release when Martin agreed to testify for the Crown in a liquor conviction appeal. The contempt of court charge arose from Martin's refusal to testify at the hearing of an appeal against the bootlegging conviction of Mike Knezo.

CONVICTIONS QUASHED

VANCOUVER—Two convictions entered against a youth in Burnaby juvenile court were quashed here Wednesday in

B.C. Supreme Court after arguments by his lawyer, David Sturdy.

The 18-year-old Burnaby youth had been convicted of driving while his licence was under suspension and causing a disturbance.

DIES IN TRUCK CRASH

MERRITT—James David Kenney, 21, of Mission, died Wednesday when his truck-trailer plunged down a 100-foot bank on the Merritt-Princeton Highway and burned.

Kenney's body was removed after forestry officials put out the fire. The truck was destroyed.

FIRE DAMAGES CHURCH

VANCOUVER—Fire did $3,000 damage to an almost new Roman Catholic church here Wednesday, destroying the vestibule, organ and choir loft and blackening the building with smoke.

Rev. J. Hanrahan, pastor of St. Anthony's called the fire a "mystery."

Officials are investigating a report that small boys were seen outside the church shortly before the fire.

Studies Hint Prairie Lake Biggest Meteor Crater

OTTAWA (CP)—A Canadian scientist has returned from a lonely camp beside a northern Saskatchewan lake with evidence of what he believes may be the world's largest meteorite crater. Dr. M. J. S. Innes, of the Dominion Observatory, accompanied by geologist Walter Pearson, of the Saskatchewan resources department, spent most of August investigating Deep Bay at the southeastern end of Reindeer Lake, about 250 miles north of Prince Albert.

He returned with evidence that the circular depression forming Deep Bay is a crater created by some falling meteor, probably 6,000 to 30,000 years ago.

'Wholesale Waste' Of Resources Hit

B.C.'s natural resources are being wasted in a wholesale way, leaving nothing for future generations. Elvan Walters, CCF candidate in Esquimalt, told a meeting of 13 people Wednesday night at Metehosin.

"We are replanting our forests improperly," said Mr. Walters—leaving the country a waste for our children and grandchildren.

Mr. Walters pointed out the limited life of our known mineral resources.

"They are our resources and we should have a say. They must not be controlled by private monopoly any longer," Mr. Walters said.

Turkey Shoot At Chemainus Set Sept. 30

CHEMAINUS—Kinsmen will hold a pre-Thanksgiving turkey shoot again this year, members decided at their first fall meeting.

The shoot, which has proved popular in past years, will be held Sept. 30 at the gravel pit behind the E & N section house.

Kinsmen will hold a work party at their park and playground Sunday to take down all playground equipment and lock it up for the winter months.

Dismissal Threat Charged to Gagardi

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Vancouver Sun quotes a civil servant in Nakusp, 50 miles northwest of Nelson, B.C., as saying that Highway Minister P. A. Gagardi was heard to threaten his dismissal for asking questions at a Social Credit election meeting.

Mr. Gagardi denied making the threat. At the same time he attacked what he called the "insidious, diabolical method of the opposition parties in this campaign."

MADE TO APOLOGIZE

The Sun quotes social worker John Wood as saying in a telephone interview:

"He (Gagardi) was made to apologize during the meeting but the next morning he was heard to say I would be transferred a couple of times and then fired."

Mr. Wood said he has sworn out an affidavit on the minister's statements and sent copies to his department head and the civil service commission.

He spoke with Health Minister Eric Martin, who was also on an interior campaign trip.

"Mr. Martin said I would not be fired."

ENTITLED TO SHARE

He said he asked Mr. Gagardi about Premier Bennett's proposal to return $28 of property taxes to homeowners. Mr. Wood says he rents his home and doesn't qualify for the rebate.

"I said I understood the money was to come from our natural resources, which all the people own, and wanted to know why I didn't come in for a share."

"Gagardi suggested I go out and buy a house. I told him couldn't afford to because I worked for the government," Mr. Wood said. "Mr. Gagardi then told him that under previous administrations he would have been fired on the spot for talking at a political meeting."

Boil Water For Drinking, Village Told

CHEMAINUS—The municipality of North Cowichan has advised all Chemainus water users to boil drinking water.

The chlorinator which chlorinates all water drawn from Fullmer's Lake is temporarily defective. Until repairs have been made, all consumers, other than those connected to the Crozier Road line, are advised to boil their water.

Chemainus residents may not have to put up with this inconvenience too long, however. Providing sufficient rain falls in the next day or so, the source of water supply will be switched back to Miller Creek.

Duncan Committee Advises Extension of City Limits

To obtain water, consumers outside the city should not expect to obtain water "unless they have first placed themselves on the same basis as the Duncan taxpayer."

SINGAPORE (Reuters)—The British-owned newspaper Straits Times says a hen has laid an egg bearing the inscription "Mohammed" in classical Malay.

Sommers Has 'Lot To Answer For', Liberal Contends

Former lands and forests minister Robert Sommers and the B.C. forest management licence system were under fire by George Whitaker, Liberal candidate for Esquimalt, when he addressed a meeting at View Royal, Wednesday night.

"Sommers," he said, "had a lot to answer for when he asked five applicants for forest management licences in the area above Boston to withdraw their applications so that he could make a public working circle."

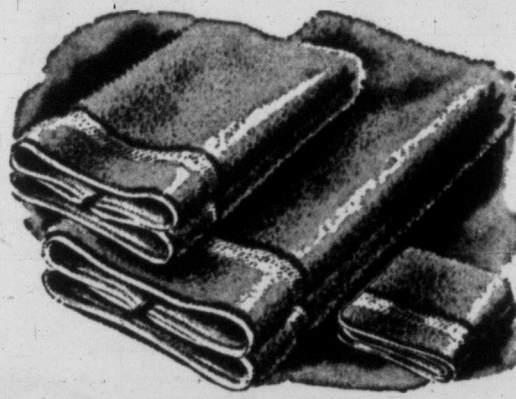

"He then granted a forest management licence for the same area to a big corporation."

Fall Kills Man At Cement Plant

Bamberton Accident Under Investigation

A 46-year-old millworker was killed Wednesday night in a fall at the B.C. Cement Co. plant at Bamberton.

John Webster, of Mill Bay, fell 12 feet from a walkway on to a cement floor. No one saw the accident.

Plant officials said today Webster was found lying on the floor by other workers at about 8 p.m.

He was taken by police ambulance to King's Daughters Hospital in Duncan where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

The victim is believed to have fallen on his head, but it is not known whether he died instantly. He is survived by his widow at Mill Bay.

WESTERN BOTTLING CO. president Peter Graham learned with relief today he wouldn't be compelled to grow a beard to carry out distribution of Schweppes products on Vancouver Island. Schweppesman Edward Whitehead, whose hirsute spade has dug the foundations for phenomenal sales rise on this continent, is here today to open Western's new plant on Richardson street, address joint meeting of Rotary Club and sales executives at Empress hotel.

WHY OH WHY OH WHY?

Whiskers Whizz Soft Drink Sale

By MONTE ROBERTS

Advertising experts who can't figure out how a beard could increase the sales of a soft drink by 7,000 per cent have something in common with the owner of said beard, Cmdr. Edward Whitehead (RN, Ret.).

Cmdr. Whitehead doesn't know either.

His is the famed beard featured in full-page newspaper and magazine advertising to drive to popularize Schweppes Tonic on this continent.

When I met the long, lean and lithe No. 1 salesman for Schweppes at the Empress Hotel this morning, I confessed I was puzzled why a newspaperman should be assigned to interview such a frankly commercial promoter.

Cmdr. Whitehead confessed he was puzzled, too.

"But it happens all over the continent," he said.

I also confessed I was puzzled as to what a beard had to do with a soft drink.

PUZZLE PUZZLE

Cmdr. Whitehead confessed he was puzzled, too.

"I just grew it during the war to keep my neck warm on northern patrols," he said. (He was one of the many navy types who sprouted facial foliage to supplement muffled on Mursmansk convoy duties.)

"I became rather attached to it, and it became rather attached to me," he explained.

I was pleased to note he did not stroke "it," and, in fact, was apparently unaware of "its" existence.

Cmdr. Whitehead said he did not keep the beard as a sales promotion gimmick. "My family likes it," he said. "Other chaps had their beards ordered off by their wives when they came home. My wife ordered me to keep it.

"I don't know why," he said, keeping up the generally puzzled tone of the interview.

I asked him why the beard sold Schweppes.

"It's puzzling," he said. "But David Ogilvie—an astute Scot who now runs a large New York advertising agency—thinks he knows."

"David the man with the beard explained, 'said we needed a new approach to break into the North American market."

"Dignity with punch," said Cmdr. Whitehead, "was what we required. And David said I was to be the figurehead in the ads."

"I resisted to the best of my ability," he said. "But David talked me into trying it once, with my picture in full page ads in the New York dailies."

"We sold out the Schweppes supply in New York," he said, continuing to look puzzled. "So there you are."

At this point I bade farewell to Cmdr. Schweppes—pardon, Whitehead, and left, somewhat more puzzled than when I arrived.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—Did the Spaniards, when they brought horses from Europe to this continent, shoe their horses with iron? E.D.N.

A.—As this column pursued research it became apparent you had asked a most interesting question. While geological history establishes the fact that Eohippus lived for a long time on this continent, the full-sized horse as the present age knows him was brought from Europe by the invading Spaniards, from whom the Indians got him, but though vast amounts have been written about the horse, no direct historical reference to the Spaniards shoeing their horses in the age in which they introduced them to this continent could be found. There seems little doubt they shod their horses in Spain at that time and it may be reasonably deduced they also did so on this continent, though there were then no paved or cobblestoned highways.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

Army Buildings To Be Levelled At Clover Pt.

Final approval by department of national defence for clearing by the city of old army installations from Clover point, was received at city hall today.

"Now we are ready to go," said Mayor Percy Scurrell, showing a letter from Defence Minister Ralph Campney.

The federal reply was awaited by works officials who recently launched a $75,000 beautification program along the Dallas Road waterfront.

Plans for beach access stairways, parking bays, road widening and foreshore landscaping include the area from Douglas Street to Clover point.

On the point an old rifle range, a power house building, two searchlight emplacements, and other buildings will be levelled at once. The point will be served by underground wired lighting and a new oil surface road which will end in a sea-front circle.

Commodore Budge Opens Flower Show At 2 P.M. Friday

BETWEEN TIMES By MONTE ROBERTS

OUR VERY OWN GARDENING GUIDE (WHAT TO DO BEFORE THE WINTER COMES EDITION)

This is a vitally important time for all gardeners. It is the time when one must protect one's investment. For example I have invested in my garden, for gladiolus bulbs alone, the sum of 89 cents.

These gladiolus bulbs huffed and puffed, and greened and keened, and zoomed and bloomed.

In some areas, they bloomed so heartily you could almost see them through the screen of dandelions and chickweed.

Thus you can readily see why it is essential I protect my investment of 89 cents.

If you, too, have gladiolus bulbs protect your investment by doing as I did.

Seek expert advice.

My expert advice, of course, came from Our Very Own Gardening Expert, Jack Beestall.

Although I didn't write it all down, as closely as I can remember the advice went like this:

When the blooms have unbloomed, pluck them. Just before the first frost, cut the leaves down to about six inches above the ground. (Mr. Beestall didn't say how you know when it is just before the first frost, but this is a minor detail.)

Leave the bulbs in the ground while the ground isn't too damp, but dig them up just before the ground becomes too damp.

(Finding out when it is just before the ground gets too damp is another minor detail.)

After you have dug up the bulbs (still with six inches of stem and leaves attached) spread them out to dry where it is warm but not too hot and where there is a circulation of air but not too much air.

Turn them over gently when they need to be turned over. (Most likely at 4.30 a.m.)

After they begin to dry but are not too dry, gently detach the residue of leaves close to the top of the bulb but not too close to the top of the bulb.

The bulbs can then be safely stored in a cool, dry place which is not too cool nor too dry.

Oh, I forgot to mention, the bulbs should be dusted gently, but not too gently, with anti-frugogistene powder, to prevent frugogistation.

Anyway, early in January it is time to shuck off the shells of the gladiolus bulbs, place them on waxed paper, and cover them with a layer of naphtha flakes, presumably to keep moths away.

(Why moths would bother with gladiolus bulbs when they have all those sweaters and blankets to eat is beyond me.)

All that remains to be done is to wait until spring at which time you go through all the bulbs, very carefully, and throw away those which show signs of rot, or, if they are too rotten, of course, throw them away.

You will then have thrown away ALL the gladiolus bulbs, and be ready to make another 89-cent investment, to give you something to protect NEXT year.

First meeting of the current season for Victoria and District Diabetic Association will take place Friday commencing at 7.45 p.m. in the nurses' auditorium at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Three new navigation aids, all day beacons, have been established in the Barkley Sound area, the department of transport district marine agent said today.

The Dale Carnegie Club International will meet Monday at 7.45 p.m. in the Glenisiel Hotel.

School warning signs for the Trans-Canada Highway and Interurban Road in vicinity of the new Colquitz Junior High School will be asked of Saanich and provincial-highways officials.

A meeting of District 61 board of trustees Wednesday also decided to advise students from the Tillicum area to approach the school along a route which would cross the main highway by the Interurban underpass.

John R. Lauder, 1460 Oliver, a taxi driver, was fined $40 in city police court today for careless driving and also lost his licence for a three-month period.

Lauder, with a previous record of driving infractions, was involved in a collision on Pandora Sept. 4, when he swung over the centre line after taking a corner too wide.

"Sam McGrady" appeared in police court again today, to tell Magistrate Henry C. Hall she had made a mistake and did not wish to be tried by a county court judge on a theft charge.

The slender, 21-year-old Duncan girl, whose real name is Florence Scragge, then entered a plea of not guilty, and was remanded to Monday for a police court trial.

Wednesday she told Magistrate Hall she wished to be tried by a judge but explained today she meant magistrate.

It was a night of memories for many of the 300 well-wishers who met to honor the founding of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in 1866.

Six have been members of the church congregation for 50 years, some had been married in the church, many had brought their children to be baptized there. Close to 10,000 sermons had been preached from the pulpit.

Among those who brought anniversary greetings were Mayor Percy Scurrell, Rev. F. E. H. James, DD, of the Victoria Ministerial Association; Canon George Biddle of St. John's Anglican church, and Rev. E. G. Thompson, MA, of the Victoria Presbytery.

Tribute also was paid to minister of St. Andrew's, the Right Reverend J. Lewis W. McLean, moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of Canada in 1954.

But it was more than a night of memories for the church who gathered at the church. It was a night for looking to the future.

In his anniversary address, Mr. Justice A. M. Manson of the Supreme Court of British Columbia called upon members of the congregation to consider how they may best serve the world of tomorrow.

It is not enough that something is ancient and honorable," he said. "History cannot save us. St. Andrew's may be proud of its history, but it must look ahead. We must have an objective and the spirit to accomplish it."

"Each passing birthday draws us closer to the end of a short span of life. This anniversary should be a time of stock-taking," he said. "The world of today has no place for fence-sitters. No man has a right to say 'Because I cannot understand, then I cannot believe.' There is one and only one answer to the problems of the world today. That is Christianity in a practical form. In times like these, fence-sitters are a public menace."

He said the church emblem, a burning bush, which "smouldered" for 25 years after many Presbyterian churches joined the United Church of Canada in the 1920s, has now "come alive again and is burning brightly."

"Presbyterianism is on the march again," he said. "And it has many miles of marching ahead."

Grand Old Victoria Church Marks 90th Anniversary

BY DINAH KERR Times Church Editor

A grand old kirk celebrated its 90th anniversary Wednesday night.

It was a night of memories for many of the 300 well-wishers who met to honor the founding of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in 1866.

Six have been members of the church congregation for 50 years, some had been married in the church, many had brought their children to be baptized there. Close to 10,000 sermons had been preached from the pulpit.

Among those who brought anniversary greetings were Mayor Percy Scurrell, Rev. F. E. H. James, DD, of the Victoria Ministerial Association; Canon George Biddle of St. John's Anglican church, and Rev. E. G. Thompson, MA, of the Victoria Presbytery.

Tribute also was paid to minister of St. Andrew's, the Right Reverend J. Lewis W. McLean, moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of Canada in 1954.

But it was more than a night of memories for the church who gathered at the church. It was a night for looking to the future.

In his anniversary address, Mr. Justice A. M. Manson of the Supreme Court of British Columbia called upon members of the congregation to consider how they may best serve the world of tomorrow.

It is not enough that something is ancient and honorable," he said. "History cannot save us. St. Andrew's may be proud of its history, but it must look ahead. We must have an objective and the spirit to accomplish it."

"Each passing birthday draws us closer to the end of a short span of life. This anniversary should be a time of stock-taking," he said. "The world of today has no place for fence-sitters. No man has a right to say 'Because I cannot understand, then I cannot believe.' There is one and only one answer to the problems of the world today. That is Christianity in a practical form. In times like these, fence-sitters are a public menace."

He said the church emblem, a burning bush, which "smouldered" for 25 years after many Presbyterian churches joined the United Church of Canada in the 1920s, has now "come alive again and is burning brightly."

"Presbyterianism is on the march again," he said. "And it has many miles of marching ahead."

Chairman of the meeting was Hugh C. F. Reston, retired chief of police in Oak Bay, and member of St. Andrew's congregation.

Revolving Shelves Utilize The 'Dead' Corner Spaces

By PENNY SAVER

Space saving revolving shelves are something that need not be confined to the ultra-modern home, but can be a welcomed and well-used part of every home, new or old. It doesn't even take special installation to convert regular, old-type shelves into corner-space utilizing ones. On a plastic base, a half inch high, rotates a tray that moves smoothly on rust-proof ball bearings. It is 12 1/2 inches in diameter, and has side "hedges" to keep things where they belong. Made in a variety of colors it can also be used for dining or buffet tables, too.

It's certainly a gadget of many uses, for you'll find a place for it on serving trays, kitchen shelves, refrigerator shelves, in the sick room, baby's room or on your dressing table. In the refrigerator, especially, you'll find it not only a space saver, but a food saver as well, for food won't be pushed to the back and forgotten, as every time the shelf is turned, all items on the tray are brought into view. Dead corner space is made useful again and all for $1.95.

FOR PARENTS ONLY

Photographs Tell the Continued Story Of Child's Growth From Year to Year

By NANCY CLEAVER

A child's photo taken by a good photographer is a possession which grows dear to parents with the passing of the years. So does a picture of the family group. It is an investment which they will never regret because it opens the magic door to happy memories of happenings in the childhood of a son or daughter.

But the informal snapshots taken at home are also of great value. Color pictures are still rather expensive but a good color "shot" is indeed a treasure! For the majority of families black and white pictures taken even with an inexpensive box camera can produce excellent results. This is an activity which deserves a place in the home's budget for recreation.

A generation ago, amateur photographers were usually limited in their pictures to those taken out-of-doors on a bright day. But high speed film, flash-bulb attachments and photo flood lights have changed all this. Indoor pictures are now practical for beginners who will faithfully follow the directions. There are a number of excellent inexpensive books on taking snapshots on the market. Every public library has books on photography. This is a fascinating hobby for a family and a child's life.

Experience soon eliminates the mistakes of fumbling a picture by moving the camera when clicking the shutter or the unfortunate choice of a background, or allowing sun to shine on the lens. If a child is being taken to a professional photographer, he will likely agree that there are certain things which a mother can do to co-operate in a satisfactory result in her child's photo. Fit the appointment for the picture into a time in a small child's schedule when he is rested and happy. Don't be in a tense, rushed mood! This is so contagious and a child hates to be hurried.

WHY GROW OLD?

Can Eat Just a Little Candy For Energy While on Diet

It takes energy just to stay alive. Even when we sleep our bodies use some of this precious stuff. The greater our activity the more energy we require.

So often when writing about reducing I warn my readers to leave off candy and so forth. The calorie count is so high that if we ate much of it while losing pounds we would not have enough calories left on our diet for absolutely essential foods. However, even the red ducer must have some carbohydrates in her slimming diet.

You often will see the baked potato on my reducing diets. I do warn you about using too much butter on it. You will find breads with the same warning. You may sometimes see whole grain cereals, with the suggestion that you use skim milk instead of cream.

But if your greatest trial in reducing comes from leaving off sweets you can follow the evening meal with a couple of small pieces of hard candy, but do not go haywire with this.

A moderate amount (and I mean moderate) of hard candy taken after meals can be advantageous in avoiding fatigue and is also good psychologically. Sugar always has been known to be a source of quick energy because it is rapidly digested and absorbed into the blood stream. That is why athletes often munch on candy before a contest.

I really hesitate to mention this because, being human, if I give you an inch you probably will take a mile, and you cannot afford to if you are going to lose those pounds!

One reason for the fatigue women experienced when reducing a number of years ago was the lack of any carbohydrates in their diet, and also because

Production Doubled, Trade Boost Japan Regaining Industrial Power

Through work and determination, Japan is on its way back to major industrial power, Dean F. H. Soward told members of the Women's Canadian Club, Wednesday afternoon, in the Empress Hotel.

Dean Soward, professor and head of the department of history at University of British Columbia, toured Japan in 1935 as co-director of a world university seminar. Subject of his address was "Some Impressions of Japan's Re-emergence in International Politics."

The speaker told his audience that no other nation was so well stocked with industrial equipment and resources. Major advancement, he said, was aided by a first-class transportation system, plenty of electric power, a good educational system and the fact that Japan is technically well in advance of other Asian countries.

In industry, the Japanese have long hours and low wages, but great production, doubled since the end of the war. They have few raw materials, so 80 per cent must be imported and 20 per cent of foodstuffs.

"Trade lost during the war years is being re-established, and these energetic people don't miss an opportunity to further this trade," Dean Soward said.

POPULATION

A major problem in Japan is the enormous population. Repatriation of 6,000,000 after the war resulted in Japan's population reaching 90,000,000—in a country occupying less space than California. Of the land only 16 per cent is suitable for cultivation, and the tragedy is that the population is pushing the cities into this land, creating another problem.

Japan has the lowest Asian death rate, and the rising population, lack of resources and room for expansion has the country "bulging at the seams." Few outlets for immigration are available to these people.

The shock of defeat in the war has instilled in the people a desire not only for democracy, but for pacifism. Revulsion to war and an element of disgust for former leadership causes them to oppose rearmament.

In an attempt to work out a democratic form of government, the Japanese have experienced a radical change from former rule. Universal suffrage, election of both houses, and now, a two-party system in the lower house are a part of their government. One party is called the Liberal Democratic party, and the Socialist, right and left-wing, are combined in opposition to this party. A genuine effort is being made to make the system work.

"Japan has become a form of proving ground for democracy," Dean Soward said.

"There is no divided Japan as there is a divided Germany, but there are two stands of opinion in regard to America," the speaker explained. There is respect for the American's achievements and force, and the vanquished, but again prosperous, people realize the folly of "biting the hand that feeds them." Conarrore-Webster Vows In St. John's Church

Frosty white nylon net over satin created a lovely wedding gown for Ada Joy Webster when she became the bride of Le Roy Conarrore, recently. The hoop-skirted gown featured a sweetheart neckline and was topped by a bolero with lily pointed sleeves. Red roses and stephanotis formed her bridal bouquet.

Daughter of Mrs. R. M. Porter, 1414 Lang Street, and the late William Webster, the bride was given in marriage by her brother, W. E. Webster.

The groom is son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Conarrore, 1422 Fort Street. Canon George Biddle performed the ceremony in St. John's Anglican Church.

During the signing of the register, Mrs. E. Conarrore sang, "A Wedding Prayer." M. Hamilton played traditional organ music. Maid of honor for her sister, Miss Jeanne Webster, and bridesmaid, Miss Patricia Butler, cousin of the bride, wore blue nylon net over satin with ice blue coronets and bouquets of pale yellow carnations.

Bud Dalley was best man and ushers were E. Conarrore, Jr., and Walley Watson.

Reception was held at 757 Pandora Avenue, where Mrs. Conarrore sang, "One Kiss" and "Vienna Dream." Eric Wilkinson proposed the toast to the bride.

Autumn flowers formed an archway over the newlyweds as they received their guests. For a honeymoon in Washington, the bride chose a sheath dress of turquoise blue silk, fashioned on Chinese lines, with raw silk duster coat, pink chrysanthemum hat and accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Conarrore will live at Rosemount Apartments, 470 Gorge Road.

Their Eggbeaters Whip the Skies, 'Whirly Girls' Group Expands

WASHINGTON — Can you drive a car without making men mad?

Are you able to pat your head and rub your tummy at the same time?

If so, ladies, you've got the two basic requirements for learning to fly a helicopter, according to Miss Jean Ross Howard, founder of one of the most exclusive women's organizations in the world.

They're women helicopter pilots in a club called Whirly Girls. Only 18 of them belong.

To qualify, a gal has to have a helicopter rating certified by the Civil Aeronautics Administration or the foreign equivalent. And that's not so easy.

You have to be good enough to solo a helicopter and carry passengers according to tough CAA standards of international rules.

"We're exclusive, but we don't want to stay that way," says Jean who is assistant to the director of the Helicopter Council of the Aircraft Industries Association.

She and the rest of the Whirly-Girls are trying to interest women in eggbeaters, and they don't mean the kitchen variety.

In the future they hope to establish scholarships to help other gals handle helicopters. The organization was started by 13 charter members on April 1, 1955.

"Women helicopter pilots can be extremely valuable as a reserve force for Civil Defence," says Jean.

"Anyone who is given the opportunity should be able to learn to fly a helicopter," she explains. But she adds that it does take a little co-ordination and previous experience with something mechanical.

That accounts for the head-tummy test and ability to drive a car.

It's a gross understatement to say that the present roster of Honoring proficient women in a difficult field, Miss Jean Ross Howard of Washington, founded a club which gathers together those of her sex licensed to fly helicopters.

Whirly-Girls 'is' an unusual group of women.

For example, there's Mlle. Valerie Andre of Paris, a brain surgeon who won fame in Indo-China.

She learned to fly a helicopter and then carried wounded back to hospital areas through Communist gunfire. In all, she flew 126 helicopter missions and picked up more than 163 wounded.

Other Whirly-Girls include: Elynor Rudnick of Bakersfield, Calif., who operates a fleet of eight helicopters that dust crops, prospect for oil and do stunt work for the movies, among other things.

Mrs. June Reynolds of Candor, North Carolina, who has a helicopter dust crop business with her husband, Jack. This 27-year-old dynamic redhead is a mother of three.

Arlene Davis of Cleveland, Ohio, newest member of the Whirly-Girls. She's a commercial pilot for single and multi-engine land and sea planes and a flight instructor.

Marlene Jacqueline Auriol of France who recently was named one of the Harmon Award winners. She holds the title of the world's fastest woman pilot.

The presentation of the award to Mme. Auriol this fall may be the occasion for getting together many of the Whirly-Girls.

And when they do converge, it's something to hear. They don't hold a "meeting" by the way. When they gather it's a "hovering."

Mayor Leads Anti-Negro Campaign

CLAY, Ky. (AP)—Mayor Herman Z. Clark, outspoken foe of non-segregated education of Negroes and whites, says he personally will lead this small Kentucky community's campaign to rid the city school of its only two Negro students.

"I'll not rest until James and Teresa Gordon return to a school where they belong," Clark said in an interview.

"We will follow a policy of passive resistance by keeping our children out of school until the Gordons leave."

The movement started Wednesday when all white children in the 500-pupil school walked out after the Gordon children entered classes under protection of 500 national guardsmen and 60 state troopers.

One teacher, Minvil Clark, said he would not return even though "I was threatened with the loss of my teaching certificate by the state board of education."

Clark, a Baptist minister and school teacher in addition to being mayor, said he and the school's 11 other teachers were told that the board could revoke their certificates if they left school before their working day ended.

LET'S FACE FACTS NOW!

More and Better Roads Can Be Built For Your Tax Dollar

Despite the present feverish pre-election activity, the government is actually spending a smaller percentage of its swollen tax dollar on the roads than in any other Canadian province.

Last year the Social government actually spent less per cent on roads and allied work, than did the last Liberal administration in the year 1952-1953.

What the present government is spending, is producing only a spotty, disconnected program, extravagantly wasteful of men, machines and material. Loss of 18 top departmental engineers and the desire of the government to appear to be building roads everywhere, has resulted in unplanned, haphazard construction. No major highway has been completed in this province since the John Hart and Hope-Princeton Highways, which were constructed by previous administrations.

We will:

- give true road value for car and truck taxes;
- build roads that are competently engineered and let by competitive contract only;
- have priorities and dates for completion set by an independent Highway Commission.

The savings made by this method of operation will mean more and better roads, even though we are pledged to cut all car licenses to $10.

Arthur Laing - Liberal Leader

690 FEET UP

Police Talk Mother Out of Death Plunges

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A 20-year-old mother of two climbed 690 feet up a television transmission tower early this morning before two pursuing policemen were able to dissuade her from jumping.

Police said Mrs. Joyce Speechly of suburban Tonawanda was first sighted by a guard at the tower. The guard called to the woman, then about 50 feet up, and she told him, "I feel giddy. I'm going to the top to jump." The tower is 740 feet high.

Two policemen summoned by the guard began the arduous climb while firefighters spread a net beneath the tower.

Within 50 feet of the top, Patrolmen Rocco Navarro and Gerald Booker said Mrs. Speechly paused and talked "incoherently." Then she followed them down, talking all the while.

She was taken to a hospital for observation. Police said her husband told them she had undergone recent treatment for a nervous disorder.

OAK BAY

You don't have to be exactly ancient to remember Rooney in his famed Judge Hardy series of the 30s, but you can't be too young either. Over the years his star has alternately dimmed and flared. In the past two years he has reaped the critics' kudos for fine performances in "The Bridges of Toko-Ri" and, lately, in the "Bold and the Brave," for which he could very well be nominated for a supporting Academy Award.

IN SWITCHING

From O'Connor to Rooney, U-I also switched story backgrounds. Up until now, Francis the talking mule has always been associated with the U.S. armed forces. This time, however, the plot is a murder-mystery and all the fun and hilarity takes place in an old, much-remodeled, much-diminished haunted castle.

Those who enjoy this sort of thing won't be disappointed. The youngsters, especially, should get their full measure of laughter and fun out of it.

(B) "THE BROKEN STAR"

Second half of the Odeon's bill is U-I's "The Broken Star," an action western starring Howard Duff, Lita Baron and Bill Williams. In it, Duff plays a crooked deputy sheriff who kills and steals and lies until pal Williams drags him.

Although it's not a bad plot everything else is. The acting is spotty and the whole smacks of the 'hastily contrived.' As readers of this column know, we do not care for this sort of thing.

But we didn't care for this sort of thing when we mean.

'No Acting,' Says Jessel, Just Play Self

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I don't want to sound like an actor who is out of work and talking about the 'good old days.' As a matter of fact, I have turned down $50,000 in offers in the last few months."

This was George Jessel's preface to his comments about the status of American show business. As expounder, he will expound to after-dinner audiences on anything from the Kinsey report to basket weaving in Israel. He's the best in the business.

But this time it was after lunch and it all started when I asked about his return to acting in Beau James.

"But I'm playing myself," he protested. "I am delivering the same introductions which I gave for Jimmy Walker, who is played by Bob Hope, 20 or 30 years ago. It fills me with a great feeling of nostalgia."

NO DESIRE TO ACT

"If I were playing the role of someone else in the picture, I wouldn't do it. I have lost all desire to act."

"Perhaps if show business were as it used to be, it might be a different story. If vaudeville were still here..."

He paused reflectively and with a little prodding, went on:

"In the old days, the great stars were gentlemen who were schooled in their craft. Nowadays, a star can be created in 24 hours. You can't expect an Elvis Presley to have the same sense of humanity of an Ethel Barrymore."

"Some mechanical means should be used to take down the rock that was a danger to the public."

Another official confirmed he had heard the opinion expressed to the contractors that a dragline should be used for the job.

Peril of the operation was demonstrated to fellow workers of the dead men and dozens of highway travellers who watched the road clearing later in the afternoon.

Piano-sized boulders had to be lifted by power shovel and pushed clear by bulldozers. For hours the rumble of rolling rock was heard as the fallen rocks were pushed across the highway to bounce 200 yards from the steep hillside into Finlayson Inlet. They hit the water like bombs and cascaded water to the shoreline treets.

Nearest eyewitness to the accident was Fred Rolston, 25, 568 Whiteside, Victoria. He had been working on the roadway, directing traffic, halting cars as the crew above him loosened the big rocks which had been dislodged by earlier blasting operations.

"The slide started about 200 feet above them. All I could see was the red shirt (Kennedy's) coming down. Kennedy had never sailed before. He never had a chance."

"They had ropes up there. I don't know why they never put them on."

Other workers felt the slide may have started from a combination of events—heavy rains the day previous, the earlier blasting operations and perhaps the vibrations from trains passing over the E. and N. tracks which pass across the side of the mountain above where the slide started.

OTHERS JUMPED

Truck driver Jim Hickey, who witnessed the slide from a point further down the road, said other members of the scaling crew were able to jump clear as the bank crumbled.

Of White and Kennedy, he stated, "I don't think they knew what happened. They slid over the edge in a matter of seconds. I must have been four minutes that the rocks rolled down on them."

It was Hickey who drove to the engineers' office and reported the slide. RCMP officers were immediately called from Colwood, and Langford ambulance attended.

The task of digging out the bodies seemed never-ending to the operators of the shovel and two bulldozers. About 60 workmen gathered to help, and at one time 15 men clambered over the heap of rock, wrestling boulders aside with their bare hands.

They were called away for fear of further accident and to permit the machines greater access.

The body of Roy White was uncovered first and was transported to town by the Langford ambulance. The search for Kennedy's body lasted for three hours.

Finally, as the shovel chewed at the base of the slide, other surface rock rolled down and uncovered the youth. His body was held 10 feet above the surface of the roadway.

HAZARDOUS

Efforts to remove it were hazardous. Finally the heavy scoop of the shovel was wedged into the loose rock above the body, holding further rockfall back, permitting RCMP officers, workers and Colwood firemen to extract it safely.

The body was sheeted and carried past the shocked construction crews to a Colwood can be barred—civil ship or naval, peacetime or wartime—unless it poses a threat to the defence of Egypt itself.

The question of canal pilots loomed larger as the plans for the users' agency were being outlined.

In Cairo about 100 of the 136 veteran pilots now on the job guiding ships through the difficult channel gave notice that they will quit their jobs Friday night. They are non-Egyptians hired by the old canal company, who said they now want to leave Egypt.

They had remained at their posts while attempts were made to negotiate a settlement of the dispute.

Lloyd today told a sharply divided Commons: "Of course there are grave practical difficulties to carrying out the plan but the grave practical difficulties are not of our making."

Emanuel Shinwell, defence minister in the last Labor government, suggested the canal users' proposal smacked of an American plot.

"I am very suspicious of the United States," he said.

Shinwell said he believes that there are "elements" in the U.S. which would like to boot Britain out of the Middle East—so far as oil is concerned.

British officials said the U.S. has promised to supply Britain with oil—payable in sterling instead of dollars—if Middle East sources are cut off.

NO ROCK-ROLL

Recreation Head Finds Jive Okay

NANAIMO (CP) — Alfred Kristianson, Nanaimo recreation superintendent, says he doesn't approve of rock 'n' roll but considers jiving "a good, healthy recreation."

He made the comparison Tuesday night at a meeting of the facilities committee of the recreation commission, which is considering a request from the Seren Youth Club for dancing accommodation.

FD car for transport into Victoria.

During the whole operation, cars and trucks were halted on both sides of the slide. As bulldozers cleared the rubble a few cars were let through intermittently.

Roy White had taken the job with Campbell-Bennett after a strike-enforced lay-off at Empress Motors where he has worked as an automobile technician for 12 years. He is survived by his wife Lottie, six-year-old Glen and three-year-old Holly. Born here, Roy White was to have celebrated his eighth wedding anniversary next month.

Gerald Kennedy was to have quit his job Friday and planned to leave for St. John, Quebec, where he was to begin training with the RCAF. His mother said, "He had just taken that job for pocket money, extra money for his bank account."

He had graduated from Victoria High School in June. Besides his parents, he is survived by two older brothers and two older sisters, all of whom are married.

Funeral of Kennedy will take place Saturday. Prayers will be held at Chaplin's Funeral Chapel Friday at 7:30 p.m. Requiem High Mass will be held at St. Andrew's Cathedral, Saturday at 10 a.m. Burial will be at Royal Oak.

Socreds Arrogant Gregory Charges

B.C. Never Had Premier 'So Devoid Of Values', Says Liberal Candidate

Premier W. A. C. Bennett is "totally devoid of understanding of our democratic system," Victoria Liberal candidate George Gregory said Wednesday night.

"He is ready to be taken off in a straitjacket when he is not interested in the fact that one of his ministers is accused of taking $6,000 in bribes," Mr. Gregory said.

The Liberal candidate referred to Mr. Bennett's statement in Duncan Tuesday night that the opposition had sat up all night talking about $6,000 and didn't have anything to say about the government's $68,000,000 road program.

"The $6,000 we stayed up all night for was the $6,000 alleged."

'Too Busy To Worry About Bribes'

Mr. Gregory said the government has become "arrogant and conceited and too busy with its road program to worry about $6,000 that is alleged to have been paid in bribes."

Calling of the Sept. 19 election by the premier is closely linked to the Sturdy-Sommers case, he said.

The RCMP report on investigations into the charges made against former lands and forests minister R. E. Sommers was turned over to the attorney-general on Aug. 1. On Aug. 13

British Columbians Over-Taxed

Mr. Gregory pledged a Liberal government would reduce taxes in B.C. if elected, including the sales tax, amusement tax, and automobile licence fees.

"We can reduce taxes because the people are now over-taxed."

Mr. Gregory also referred to the Cassiar-Stewart road and said contractors Wade and Wells Ltd. of Trail, hired without tender by Mines Minister Sommers, were "hopelessly lost."

"They ran the road into a lake because they were building it so fast the engineers couldn't keep up with it."

Mr. Shaw also hit out at the "patronage" involved in the building of the northern-mining assistance road. Mr. Sommers had given the contract to two of his friends who couldn't lose because they had a cost-plus contract, Mr. Shaw said.

The government was accused by Mr. Shaw of taking credit for things carried out by previous governments.

"As for the PGE, they act as if they built the whole railway from Vancouver to Prince George, when actually all they did was add on the little extension at this end which was already planned when they came into office."

Social Credit was spending money on propaganda in the present election campaign "like drunken sailors."

"This is a campaign of desperation," he said. "They must be afraid something is going to happen to them."

Mr. Edgelow said the Liberals were the only party with a firm platform, which it would adhere to.

'LIKE TO TURN BACK CLOCK'

Labor, Management Strife Stirred by SCs, Says Tory

Charges that the Social Credit government is "anti-labor" and is stirring up strife between labor and management were levelled Wednesday night by Monty Drake, Victoria Progressive Conservative candidate.

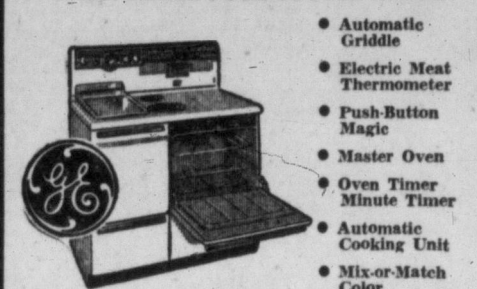

"This government would like to turn back the clock and stir up all the strife which used to exist between labor and management," he told a meeting in the McBride Hall.

He added that words like "liar" and "crook" were being freely bandied about by candidates who were trying to defeat him.

"Mere name-calling has always been the mark of a boor," he said.

ADVERTISING EXECUTIVES TOUR ESQUIMALT NAVAL INSTALLATIONS

Advertising executives from eastern agencies listen intently as HMCS Naden commanding officer Commodore P. D. Budge tells of naval history here. They toured Naden for nearly an hour today before boarding harbor craft for a visit at HMC Dockyard. Group was particularly impressed with graving dock, second largest in world.

Party of 34 is touring Greater Victoria for two days as guests of Victoria Press Ltd., and studying expanding market in area. On extreme left is VP advertising director Hector Alexander.

BETWEEN TIMES By MONTE ROBERTS

OUR VERY OWN GARDENING GUIDE (WHAT TO DO BEFORE THE WINTER COMES EDITION)

This is a vitally important time for all gardeners. It is the time when one must protect one's investment.

For example I have invested in my garden, for gladioli bulbs alone, the sum of 89 cents.

These gladioli bulbs huffed and puffed, and greened and keened, and zoomed and bloomed.

In some areas, they bloomed so heartily you could almost see them through the screen of dandelions and chickweed.

Thus you can readily see why it is essential I protect my investment of 89 cents.

If you, too, have gladioli bulbs protect your investment by doing as I did.

Seek expert advice.

My expert advice, of course, came from Our Very Own Gardening Expert, Jack Beasall.

Although I didn't write it all down, as closely as I can remember the advice went like this:

When the blooms have unbloomed, pluck them. Just before the first frost, cut the leaves down to about six inches above the ground. (Mr. Beasall didn't say how you know when it is just before the first frost, but this is a minor detail.)

Leave the bulbs in the ground while the ground isn't too damp, but dig them up just before the ground becomes too damp.

(Finding out when it is just before the ground gets too damp is another minor detail.)

After you have dug up the bulbs (still with six inches of stem and leaves attached) spread them out to dry where it is warm but not too hot and where there is a circulation of air but not too much air.

Turn them over gently when they need to be turned over. (Most likely at 4.30 a.m.)

After they begin to dry but are not too dry, gently detach the residue of leaves close to the top of the bulb but not too close to the top of the bulb.

The bulbs can then be safely stored in a cool, dry place which is not too cool nor too dry.

Oh, I forgot to mention, the bulbs should be dusted gently, but not too gently, with anti-frugustigine powder, to prevent frugustigation.

Anyway, early in January it is time to shuck off the shells of the gladioli bulbs, place them on waxed paper, and cover them with a layer of naptha flakes, presumably to keep moths away.

(Why moths would bother with gladioli bulbs when they have all those sweaters and blankets to eat is beyond me.)

All that remains to be done is to wait until spring, at which time you go through all the bulbs, very carefully, and throw away those which show signs of moisture, rot, bots, taste fly, or hoof and mouth disease.

You will then have thrown away ALL the gladioli bulbs, and be ready to make another 89-cent investment, to give you something to protect NEXT year.

Toronto; R. S. Clewes, Montreal; P. R. Austin, Toronto; A. D. Clarke, Montreal; Ralph Draper, Toronto and W. H. Austin, Toronto.

Country's Top Advertising Men Surveying Potential of District

One of the most concerted efforts ever made to focus the attention of eastern Canada and the United States on Greater Victoria is underway today as Victoria Press Ltd. hosts 34 advertising executives, from most of the main eastern agencies.

The group is on a two-day tour of the area — industrial, business, residential and naval installations.

Idea of the immensity of advertising potential of the agencies is exemplified by Carl Hassel, vice-president and director of media for Ross Roy of Canada Ltd., Windsor, which handles all Chrysler Corporation of Canada advertising. Close to $5,000,000 yearly goes to advertising and promotion, and 80 per cent of this is advertising.

The group arrived here Wednesday night, and after an 8 a.m. breakfast at the Empress Hotel, where they heard Hector

Alexander, Victoria Press advertising director, describe the area's industrial potential and its present stable economy, toured James Bay, HMCS Naden and HMC Dockyard.

They were met by Naden's commanding officer, Commodore P. D. Budge, who described Victoria as "a naval town with a historical harbor."

This afternoon they toured the city and as far north as Cowichan Lake courtesy of Trans-Canada Air Lines, and on return continued a bus sight-seeing jaunt through the residential area.

The interested group representing agencies which place most of the national advertising in Canadian newspapers on behalf of their clients, some of the largest manufacturing and distributing firms on the continent.

Friday they visit the downtown business area, Victoria Press and installations of B.C. Forest Products here.

At a dinner this evening they will be guests of Victoria Press with directors of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, Chamber president J. Fitzpatrick Dunn will speak.

Members of the visiting party are:

Bamberton Accident Under Investigation

A 46-year-old millworker was killed Wednesday night in a fall at the B.C. Cement Co. plant at Bamberton.

John Webster, of Mill Bay, fell 12 feet from a walkway on to a cement floor. No one saw the accident.

Plant officials said today Webster was found lying on the floor by other workers at about 8 p.m.

He was taken by police ambulance to King's Daughters Hospital in Duncan where he was pronounced dead on arrival. The victim is believed to have fallen on his head, but it is not known whether he died instantly.

He is survived by his widow at Mill Bay.

Plant officials said he fell beneath a guard rail on the first floor walkway and it has not been determined why the accident occurred.

An inquest is expected to be held early next week.

Webster, a shift worker, had been employed at the Bamberton plant for 10 years. He operated a clinker-crusher machine near the scene of the accident.

He is survived by his widow at Mill Bay.

WESTERN BOTTLING CO. president Peter Graham learned with relief today he wouldn't be compelled to grow a beard to carry out distribution of Schweppes products on Vancouver Island. Schweppesman Edward Whitehead, whose hirsute spade has dug the foundations for phenomenal sales rise on this continent, is here today to open Western's new plant on Richardson street, address joint meeting of Rotary Club and sales executives at Empress hotel.

WHY OH WHY OH WHY?

Whiskers Whizz Soft Drink Sale

By MONTE ROBERTS

Advertising experts who can't figure out how a beard could increase the sales of a soft drink by 7,000 per cent have something in common with the owner of said beard, Cmdr. Edward Whitehead (RN, Ret.).

Cmdr. Whitehead doesn't know either.

His is the famed beard featured in full-page newspaper and magazine advertising in the drive to popularize Schweppes Tonic on this continent.

When I met the long, lean and lithe No. 1 salesman for Schweppes at the Empress Hotel this morning, I confessed I was puzzled why a newspaperman should be assigned to interview such a frankly commercial promoter.

Cmdr. Whitehead confessed he was puzzled, too.

"But it happens all over the continent," he said.

I also confessed I was puzzled as to what a beard had to do with a soft drink.

PUZZLE PUZZLE

Cmdr. Whitehead confessed he was puzzled, too.

"I just grew it during the war to keep my neck warm on northern patrols," he said. (He was one of the many navy types who sprouted facial foliage to supplement mufflers on Marmansky convoy duties.)

"I became rather attached to it, and it became rather attached to me," he explained.

I was pleased to note he did not stroke "it," and, in fact, was apparently unaware of "its" existence.

Cmdr. Whitehead said he did not keep the beard as a sales promotion gimmick. "My family likes it," he said. "Other chaps had their beards ordered off by their wives when they came home. My wife ordered me to keep it.

"I don't know why," he said, keeping up the generally puzzled tone of the interview.

I asked him why the beard sold Schweppes.

"It's puzzling," he said. "But David Ogilvie—an astute Scot who now runs a large New York advertising agency—thinks he knows.

"David," the man with the beard explained, "said we needed a new approach to break into the North American market."

"Dignity with punch," said Cmdr. Whitehead, "was what we required. And David said I was to be the figurehead in the ads."

"I resisted to the best of my ability," he said. "But David talked me into trying it once, with my picture in full page ads in the New York dailies."

"We sold out the Schweppes supply in New York," he said, continuing to look puzzled. "So there you are."

At this point I bade farewell to Cmdr. Schweppes—pardon, Whitehead, and left, somewhat more puzzled than when I arrived.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—Did the Spaniards, when they brought horses from Europe to this continent, shoe their horses with iron? E.D.N.

A.—As this column pursued research it became apparent you had asked a most interesting question. While geological history establishes the fact that Eohippus lived for a long time on this continent, the full-sized horse as the present age knows him was brought from Europe by the invading Spaniards, from whom the Indians got him, but though vast amounts have been written about the horse, no direct historical reference to the Spaniards shoeing their horses in the age in which they introduced them to this continent could be found. There seems little doubt they shod their horses in Spain at that time and it may be reasonably deduced they also did so on this continent, though there were then no paved or cobblestoned highways.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

Revolving Shelves Utilize The 'Dead' Corner Spaces

By PENNY SAVER

Space saving revolving shelves are something that need not be confined to the ultra-modern home, but can be a welcomed and well-used part of every home, new or old. It doesn't even take special installation to convert regular, old-type shelves into corner-space utilizing ones. On a plastic base, a half inch high, rotates a tray that moves smoothly on rust-proof ball bearings. It is 13 1/2 inches in diameter, and has side "hedges" to keep things where they belong. Made in a variety of colors it can also be used for dining or buffet tables, too.

It's certainly a gadget of many uses, for you'll find a place for it on serving trays, kitchen shelves, refrigerator shelves, in the sick room, baby's room or on your dressing table. In the refrigerator, especially, you'll find it not only a space saver, but a food saver as well, for food won't be pushed to the back and forgotten, as every time the shelf is turned, all items on the tray are brought into view. Dead corner space is made useful again and all for $1.95.

Shades of fall! Nylons to best show off this season's colors and fashion tones are arriving in the stores, and are showing wonderful new features. Nylons that have a double life are the newest. Each gossamer thread of these new nylons has a twin, a guardian thread that springs into action when its mate is broken. Available in suburban or penthouse sheers at $1.75, and town sheers at $1.35 and $1.50, you'll be delighted with these stockings with a second life.

Snap-on earrings that prove so versatile with spring and summer outfits have come along into fall, and are available in brown, grey, blue and maroon buttons to clip into the earring base. You've seen these before in town. Centres of various colors snap into a clip-on base earring, and in seconds you can change the color of your earrings without changing the earring itself. The base is encircled with rhinestones for a dress-up effect. There's also a pearl centre in the set, which sells for $1.95.

Call me at 2-3131 and I'll tell you where to buy the items mentioned here in the corner column.

FOR PARENTS ONLY

By NANCY CLEAVER

A child's photo taken by a good photographer is a possession which grows deared to parents with the passing of the years. So does a picture of the family group. It is an investment which they will never regret because it opens the magic door to happy memories of happy penicils in the childhood of a son or daughter.

But the informal snapshots taken at home are also of great value. Color pictures are still rather expensive but a good color "shot" is indeed a treasure! For the majority of families black and white pictures taken even with an inexpensive box camera can produce excellent results. This is an activity which deserves a place in the home's budget for recreation.

A generation ago, amateur photographers were usually limited in their pictures to those taken out-of-doors on a bright day. But high speed film, flash-bulbs attachments and photo flood lights have changed all this. Indoor pictures are now practical for beginners who will faithfully follow the directions.

There are a number of excellent inexpensive books on taking snapshots on the market. Every public library has books on photography. This is a fascinating hobby for a family or for an individual. A little experience soon eliminates the mistakes of ruining a picture by moving the camera when clicking the shutter or the unfortunate choice of a background, or allowing sun to shine on the lens.

If a child is being taken to a professional photographer, he will likely agree that there are certain things which a mother can do to co-operate in a satisfactory result in her child's photo. Fit the appointment for the picture into a time in a small child's schedule when he is rested and happy. Don't be in a tense, rushed mood! This is so contagious and a child hates to be hurried.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Can Eat Just a Little Candy For Energy While on Diet

It takes energy just to stay alive. Even when we sleep our bodies use some of this precious stuff. The greater our activity the more energy we require.

So often when writing about reducing I warn my readers to leave off candy and so forth. The calorie count is so high that if we ate much of it while losing pounds we would not have enough calories left on our diet for absolutely essential foods. However, even the reducer must have some carbohydrates in her slimming diet.

You often will see the baked potato on my reducing diets. I do warn you about using too much butter on it. You will find breads with the same warning. You may sometimes see whole grain cereals, with the suggestion that you use skim milk instead of cream.

But if your greatest trial in reducing comes from leaving off sweets you can follow the evening meal with a couple of small pieces of hard candy, but do not go haywire with this.

A moderate amount (and I mean moderate) of hard candy taken after meals can be advantageous in avoiding fatigue and is also good psychologically. Sugar always has been known to be a source of quick energy because it is rapidly digested and absorbed into the blood stream. That is why athletes often munch on candy before a contest.

I really hesitate to mention this because, being human, if I give you an inch you probably will take a mile, and you cannot afford to if you are going to lose those pounds!

One reason for the fatigue women experienced when reducing a number of years ago was the lack of any carbohydrates in their diet, and also because of a low protein intake. Only a rabbit can subsist happily on salad greens!

If you would like to have my calorie chart so that you can count your calories, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope along with your request for leaflet No. 36. Address to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Mayor Leads Anti-Negro Campaign

CLAY, Ky. (AP)—Mayor Herman Z. Clark, outspoken foe of non-segregated education of Negroes and whites, says he personally will lead this small Kentucky community's campaign to rid the Clay school of its only two Negro students.

"I'll not rest until James and Teresa Gordon return to a school where they belong," Clark said in an interview.

"We will follow a policy of passive resistance by keeping our children out of school until the Gordons leave."

The movement started Wednesday when all white children in the 500-pupil school walked out after the Gordon children entered classes under protection of 500 national guardsmen and 60 state troopers.

One teacher, Minvil Clark, said he would not return even though "I was threatened with the loss of my teaching certificate by the state board of education."

Clark, a Baptist minister and school teacher in addition to being mayor, said he and the school's 11 other teachers were told that the board could revoke their certificates if they left school before their working day ended.

LET'S FACE FACTS NOW!

More and Better Roads Can Be Built For Your Tax Dollar

Despite the present feverish pre-election activity, the government is actually spending a smaller percentage of its swollen tax dollars on highway construction than most other Canadian provinces.

Last year the Socred government actually spent less per capita on roads and allied work, than did the last Liberal administration in the year 1952-1953.

What the present government is spending, is producing only a spotty, disconnected program, extravagantly wasteful of men, machines and material. Loss of 18 top departmental engineers and the desire of the government to appear to be building roads everywhere, has resulted in unplanned, haphazard construction. No major highway has been completed in this province since the John Hart and Hope-Princeton Highways, which were constructed by previous administrations.

We will:

- give true road value for car and truck taxes;
- build roads that are competently engineered and let by competitive contract only;
- have priorities and dates for completion set by an independent Highway Commission.

The savings made by this method of operation will mean more and better roads, even though we are pledged to cut all car licenses to $10.

690 FEET UP

Police Talk Mother Out of Death Plunge

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A 20-year-old mother of two climbed 690 feet up a television transmission tower early this morning before two pursuing policemen were able to dissuade her from jumping.

Police said Mrs. Joyce Speechly of suburban Tonawanda was first sighted by a guard at the tower. The guard called to the woman, then about 50 feet up, and she told him, "I feel giddy. I'm going to the top to jump." The tower is 740 feet high.

Two policemen summoned by the guard began the arduous climb while firefighters spread a net beneath the tower. Within 50 feet of the top, Patrolmen Rocco Navarro and Gerald Booker said Mrs. Speechly paused and talked "incoherently." Then she followed them down, talking all the while.

She was taken to a hospital for observation. Police said her husband told them she had undergone recent treatment for a nervous disorder.

'No Acting,' Says Jessel; Just Play Self

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I don't want to sound like an actor who is out of work and talking about the 'good old days.' As a matter of fact, I have turned down $60,000 in offers in the last few months."

This was George Jessel's preface to his comments about the status of American show business. As you know, George is an expatriate. He will expound to after-dinner audiences on anything from the Kinsey report to basket weaving in Israel. He's the best in the business.

But this time was after lunch and it all started when I asked about his return to acting in Beau James.

"But I'm playing myself," he protested. "I am delivering the same introductions which I gave for Jimmy Walker, who is played by Hob Hope, 20 or 30 years ago. It fills me with a great feeling of nostalgia."

NO DESIRE TO ACT

"If I were playing the role of someone else in the picture, I wouldn't do it. I have lost all desire to act."

"Perhaps if show business were as it used to be, it might be a different story. If vaudeville were still here, . . ."

He paused reflectively and with a little prodding, went on:

"In the old days, the great stars were gentlemen who were schooled in their craft. Nowadays, a star can be created in 24 hours. You can't expect an Elvis Presley to have the same sense of humanity of an Ethel Barrymore."

'ECCLESIASTIC SNIPING' CHARGED TO ANGLICANS

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—The retiring moderator of the United Church of Canada Wednesday night criticized the acting primate of the Anglican Church of Canada for what he called "ecclesiastic sniping."

Rt. Rev. Dr. George Dorey also said that the main reason for failure of talks to unify the two churches "seems to be that in the Anglican Church the power and authority to deal with such matters as co-operation rests with the archbishops and bishops."

He urged the churches to "frankly face the problems of living together as well as those of growing together."

He interrupted his formal retirement address to the 10-day conference to deliver a sharp criticism of Archbishop Philip Carrington of Quebec, acting primate of the Anglican Church, who told his church's executive council last week that the United Church is not co-operating in attempts to unify the churches.

Untended Boy, 7, Roosts Like Hen

BELFAST (AP)—Police today discovered a boy, apparently about seven years old, who has never bathed, cannot eat human food, grunts like an animal and roosts like a chicken.

Sgt. Hugh Ross said the "pitiful little boy" was found in a henhouse at Down Patrick, in County Down, 15 miles from Belfast. He was taken to a home in Belfast and turned over to physicians for examination.

Ross said a group of children playing "hide and seek" ran into the henhouses adjoining a cottage occupied by a widow and her two grown daughters. The children found the boy perched on a roost with the hens and roosters.

"He cannot talk, he cannot walk and he cannot eat human food," the sergeant said. "He has been reared like a chicken."

The mat of hair on his head did not appear ever to have been cut or washed. He had claw-like fingernails which probably never had been trimmed.

Said William Hamilton, official of the national society for the prevention of cruelty to children: "He gets about by hopping like

Britain May Arm Israel; Fears Attack

He hinted Britain is reviewing its policy on supply of arms to the Jewish state.

Magee in Quarters of U.S. Golf

SOMMERS' CHARGES

Allistone Holds Official Record Of 1955 Airing

VANCOUVER (CP)—Ernest F. Allistone today termed Social Credit League president Noel Murphy "stranger to the truth" for denying knowledge of a meeting in August, 1955, at which Mr. Allistone says corruption charges against Robert E. Sommers were aired.

He denounced Mr. Murphy's statement as "typical of the 'denial tactics' of the Bennett machine."

Mr. Allistone said: "I have the official minutes of the August, 1955, meeting at which the Social Credit member made the accusations."

Mr. Allistone, former president of the Point Grey Social Credit Constituency Association, now an Independent candidate in the Vancouver riding, told a campaign meeting Tuesday night that a Social Credit disclosed charges of "corruption and dishonesty" at a party meeting last August.

He said Premier Bennett and the Social Credit League board

Tunnel Crews Strike

Two heavy construction projects came to a halt Wednesday and today as workers walked out in a bid for recognition of local 168 Tunnel and Rock Workers' Union.

Picket lines were set up at Maude Island, Ripple Rock project Wednesday, and at B.C. Power Commission's Upper Campbell Lake power project this morning.

Union spokesmen indicated employees on the Cheakamus hydro tunnel project near Lil-loet would also strike.

Second B.C. Gas Pipeline Plan Launched

Construction of a second natural gas pipeline from north-eastern British Columbia to the lower mainland coast is proposed by Peter A. Schwerdt, an independent oil operator and promoter.

From Toronto today Mr. Schwerdt announced he has instructed a solicitor to take the necessary steps for incorporating a company in British Columbia to build the line.

Westcoast Transmission Company is already building the first pipeline from the rich gas fields of the Peace River block down to Vancouver with an outlet to the United States. A recent announcement said it is one-third finished.

Mr. Schwerdt, who flew to Toronto Wednesday from Victoria after issuing a statement criticizing the B.C. government's handling of oil and gas resources, said that within 10 years at least three pipelines will be needed to carry the gas to market.

He said his proposed line would be wholly within British Columbia, designed to bring the gas from the Peace River area and deliver it to consumers in the populous coast area at reasonable prices to the consumer.

Mr. Schwerdt said a letter of intent to form the company and seek rights on the new gas line would be filed with B.C. Public Utilities Commission later today.

All rock scaling above the Malahat highway at Tunnel hill was ordered stopped today following the deaths of two construction workers Wednesday.

'Keep Guns in Holster', Soviet Urges West

Crisis Developments

1. "Shooting war" warning given by Egypt.
2. Russia tells West to "keep guns in holster."
3. Pro-British Asiatic leader calls Anglo-French "take-over Suez" plan a "great stride toward war."
4. Dulles says U.S. favors diverting ships around Africa, will not join in any shooting sparked by canal dispute.
5. Prime Minister Eden's government wins vote of confidence 321-251 on handling of Suez crisis.

LONDON (AP)—Egypt told the Western powers tonight their plans to control Suez canal traffic—if carried through—will flash off a new war.

And Russia, which has backed up Egypt's seizure of the vital waterway, moved back into the storm with urgent appeals to Britain and France to keep their guns in their holsters.

Egypt's "this means war" warning was delivered to the United States which with Britain and France sponsored the idea of an association of canal users to pilot their own ships through the Suez, collect dues and share the income with Egypt.

But State Secretary Dulles told a Washington press conference the United States has no intention of shooting a passage through the canal if Egypt blocks the way. He said the U.S. government would favor diverting its ships around Africa regardless of the cost.

In London, Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd reported full American support for the plan to take over control of canal traffic.

He disclosed to a packed emergency session of Parliament that Britain is calling a conference of Suez-using nations for next week, probably in London to get the project working.

Lloyd gravely added: "We are not prepared to let unrestricted control of the operation of this canal pass into the hands of one government or one man."

"Upon that issue we are not prepared to compromise."

The Western Big Three project for a canal users' association, announced only Wednesday, within hours split opinion in Britain and across the world.

Premier's Fighting Speech 'Blacked Out'

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
Times Political Reporter

In fighting mood Premier Bennett harangued the opposition parties in a heckled, applauded and "blacked-out" electrifying speech to 1,400 crowding the Royal Theatre Wednesday night.

The premier's oratory was in full flood when the lights flickered madly like tropic lightning and went out, reducing illumination to a dim, eerie glow.

"There were cries of 'sabotage' and 'don't let them stop you.' The premier tried to continue speaking but the microphones had gone dead and people at the back shouted, 'We can't hear.'"

The premier sat down and Ald. J. Donald Smith, one of the Victoria Social Credit candidates, took over.

He led the audience in community singing for 31 minutes while B.C. Electric engineers replaced a burned-out transformer outside the theatre.

Shortly after the black-out started, seven city policemen rushed into the lobby of the theatre and two ran upstairs.

There were more cries of "sabotage" and the police were asked if they had made "an arrest." They shook their heads.

"We are here to see there is no panic," one said, as he assisted an elderly lady out of the darkened theatre.

"While the audience sang 'Pack Up Your Troubles,' 'A Long, Long Trail A-Winding,' 'Tipperary,' and 'After the Ball is Over,' a Social Credit sitting in the middle of the theatre trained his flashlight on a large portrait of the premier hanging over the stage and kept it illuminated until the lights went on again.

Resuming, Mr. Bennett said: "That should dispel the idea there is any connection between this government and the B.C. Electric ... It is the lights of Liberalism in this province that have grown dim."

During his interrupted two-hour speech, the premier compared the Sturdy-Sommers case to the slander action taken by former Liberal attorney-general Gordon Wismer against Maclean's magazine. He claimed the Sturdy-Sommers case was the result of a Liberal strategy committee organized in Ottawa.

He made this statement when a man at the back of the theatre asked: "Why didn't the Accommodation has been arranged for an expected overflow attendance outside the auditorium.

NO ROCK-ROLL

Recreation Head Finds Jive Okay

NANAIMO (CP) — Alfred Kristianson, Nanaimo recreation superintendent, says he doesn't approve of rock 'n' roll but considers living "a good, healthy recreation."

pair down to the roadway, burying them under tons of boulders and loose shale, killing both instantly.

The first body, that of White, was recovered 90 minutes later. The 18-year-old Kennedy's body was not uncovered until 4:45 p.m.

The two workers were with out protection of safety ropes at the time of the accident, fellow workers said. Compensation board regulations require men scaling in such an area to be fastened by ropes to trees or other firm objects above them.

"I understand they had been cautioned by a foreman to use the ropes before they began work," the compensation board inspector said.

Both men were scaling for the first time. White, the elder of the two, was doing his first day of work for the Campbell Bennett Construction Company which is carrying out the Malahat work under contract to the provincial department of highways.

Young Kennedy had until Wednesday been employed with project engineers. He had never been up on the rock face before.

The youth's father, Michael S. Kennedy, is the resident engineer in charge of the project. He was in a temporary office near the Malahat summit when word reached him of his son's death. Friends took him home. He said Wednesday night he had suggested to the contractors, "... It wasn't safe for men up on that cliff. ... I can't order contractors; I can only suggest."

"Some mechanical means should be used to take down the rock that was a danger to the public."

Another official confirmed he had heard the opinion expressed to the contractors that a dragline should be used for the job.

Peril of the operation was demonstrated to fellow workers of the dead men and dozens of highway travellers who watched the rock clearing later in the afternoon.

Piano-sized boulders had to be lifted by power shovel and pushed clear by bulldozers. For hours the rumble of rolling rock was heard as the fallen rocks were pushed across the highway to bounce 200 yards from the steep hillside into Finlayson Inlet. They hit the water like bombs and cascaded water to the shoreline treets.

Nearest eyewitness to the accident was Fred Rolston, 25, 568 Whiteside, Victoria. He had been working on the roadway, directing traffic, halting cars as the crew above him loosened the big rocks which had been dislodged by earlier blasting operations.

"The slide started about 200 feet above them. All I could see was the red shirt (Kennedy's) coming down. Kennedy had never scaled before. He never had a chance.

"They had ropes up there. I don't know why they never put them on."

Other workers felt the slide may have started from a combination of events—heavy rains the day previous, the earlier blasting operations and perhaps the vibrations from trains passing over the E. and N. tracks which pass across the side of the mountain above where the slide started.

OTHERS JUMPED
Truck driver Jim Hickey, who witnessed the slide from a point further down the road, said other members of the scaling crew were able to jump clear as the bank crumbled.

Of White and Kennedy, he stated, "I don't think they knew what happened. They slid over the edge in a matter of seconds. I must have been four minutes that the rocks rolled down on them."

It was Hickey who drove to the engineers' office and reported the slide. RCMP officers were immediately called from Colwood and Langford ambulance attended.

The task of digging out the bodies seemed never-ending to the operators of the shovel and two bulldozers. About 60 workmen gathered to help, and at one time 15 men clambered over the heap of rock, wrestling boulders aside with their bare hands.

They were called away for fear of further accident and to permit the machines greater access.

The body of Roy White was uncovered first and was transported to town by the Langford ambulance. The search for Kennedy's body lasted for three hours.

Finally, as the shovel chewed at the base of the slide, other surface rock rolled down and uncovered the youth. His body was held 10 feet above the surface of the roadway.

HAZARDOUS
Efforts to remove it were hazardous. Finally the heavy scoop of the shovel was wedged into the loose rock above the body, holding further rockfall back, permitting RCMP officers, workers and Colwood firemen to extract it safely.

The body was sheeted and carried past the shocked construction crews to a Colwood PD car for transport into Victoria.

During the whole operation, cars and trucks were halted on both sides of the slide. As bulldozers cleared the rubble a few cars were let through intermittently.

Roy White had taken the job with Campbell-Bennett after a strike-enforced lay-off at Empress Motors where he has worked as an automobile technician for 12 years. He is survived by his wife Lottie, six-year-old Glen and three-year-old Holly. Born here, Roy White was to have celebrated his eighth wedding anniversary next month.

Gerald Kennedy was to have quit his job Friday and planned to leave for St. John, Quebec, where he was to begin training with the RCAF. His mother said, "He had just taken that job for pocket money, extra money for his bank account."

He had graduated from Victoria High School in June. Besides his parents, he is survived by two older brothers and two older sisters, all of whom are married.

Funeral of Kennedy will take place Saturday. Prayers will be held at Chaplin's Funeral Chapel Friday at 7:30 p.m. Requiem High Mass will be held at St. Andrew's Cathedral, Saturday at 10 a.m. Burial will be at Royal Oak.

Socreds Arrogant Gregory Charges

B.C. Never Had Premier 'So Devoid Of Values', Says Liberal Candidate

Premier W. A. C. Bennett is "totally devoid of understanding of our democratic system," Victoria Liberal candidate George Gregory said Wednesday night.

"He is ready to be taken off in a straitjacket when he is not interested in the fact that one of his ministers is accused of taking $6,000 in bribes," Mr. Gregory said.

The Liberal candidate referred to Mr. Bennett's statement in Duncan Tuesday night that the opposition had sat up all night talking about $6,000 and didn't have anything to say about the government's $68,000,000 road program.

"The $6,000 we stayed up all night for was the $6,000 alleged."

'Too Busy to Worry About Bribes'

Mr. Gregory said the government has become "arrogant and conceited and too busy with its road program to worry about $6,000 that is alleged to have been paid in bribes."

Calling of the Sept. 19 election by the premier is closely linked to the Sturdy-Sommers case, he said.

The RCMP report on investigations into the charges made against former lands and forests minister R. E. Sommers was turned over to the attorney-general on Aug. 1. On Aug. 13

British Columbians Over-Taxed

Mr. Gregory pledged a Liberal government would reduce taxes in B.C. if elected, including the sales tax, amusement tax, and automobile licence fees.

"We can reduce taxes because the people are now over-taxed."

Mr. Gregory also referred to the Cassiar-Stewart road and said contractors Wade and Wells Ltd. of Trail, hired without tender by Mines Minister Sommers, were "hopelessly lost."

"They ran the road into a lake because they were building it so fast the engineers couldn't keep up with it."

Mr. Shaw also hit out at the "patronage" involved in the building of the northern mining assistance road. Mr. Sommers had given the contract to two of his friends who couldn't lose because they had a cost-plus contract, Mr. Shaw said.

The government was accused by Mr. Shaw of taking credit for things carried out by previous governments.

"As for the PGE, they act as if they built the whole railway from Vancouver to Prince George, when actually all they did was add on the little extension at this end which was already planned when they came into office."

Social Credit was spending money on propaganda in the present election campaign "like drunken sailors."

"This is a campaign of desperation," he said. "They must be afraid something is going to happen to them."

Mr. Edgelow said the Liberals were the only party with a firm platform, which it would adhere to.

'LIKE TO TURN BACK CLOCK'

Labor, Management Strife Stirred by SCs, Says Tory

Charges that the Social Credit government is "anti-labor" and is stirring up strife between labor and management were levelled Wednesday night by Monty Drake, Victoria Progressive Conservative candidate.

"This government would like to turn back the clock and stir up all the strife which used to exist between labor and management," he told a meeting in the McBride Hall.

He added that words like "blat" and "crook" were being freely bandied about by candidates who were trying to defeat him.

"Mere name-calling has always been the mark of a boor," he said.

Union Stalls Walkout of Electricians

Jurisdictional walkout of electricians employed on B.C. Power Commission Ladore Falls project set for today was forestalled by electricians' union while it seeks advice from its international headquarters.

International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers claims installation of electrical machinery at the power site should be by electricians, backing its demand by a clause in the union constitution.

Work is being done presently by members of the machinists' union.

Electricians say they also have precedent on their side as far as Vancouver Island work is concerned.

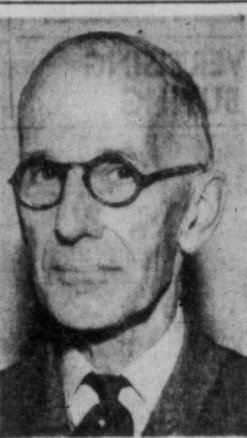

A request for support by Vancouver Island Building and Construction Trades Council made Wednesday night was turned down.

Prime Minister Nehru of India, who leads the thinking of neutral Asians, denounced the plan. He said Eden's speech "appears to close the door to further negotiations." He asked the Big Three to drop their plan and accept Nasser's offer of limited negotiation.

Earl Attlee, Britain's Labor prime minister from 1945 to 1955, charged in the House of Lords the Eden government's policy "is fraught with the gravest danger to peace, is dangerous to the position of Britain in the world and endangers the whole position of the British Commonwealth."

Ceylon's Premier Bandenaike, another prominent Asian nationalist and member of the Commonwealth, charged Britain has taken "a giant stride toward war."

Russia's intervention—in the form of personal notes from Premier Nikolai Bulganin to Eden and Molotov—remained the best-kept diplomatic secret of the moment.

But government officials in London and Paris reported the tone of the notes was moderate though firm and that Bulganin called upon the two sides to do nothing that might touch off a shooting war. The Soviet Union's position in the crisis also was defined.

In the House of Commons debate amid the cheers of his Conservative supporters and the jeers of his Labor opponents, Lloyd declared the government's attitude throughout has remained loyal to the United Nations in handling the dispute.

Lloyd declared Britain had brought the issue to the attention of the Security Council "not as a formality but in a genuine effort to improve thereby the prospect of a peaceful settlement."

Egypt sent a letter to the president of the United Nations Security Council charging Britain and France must bear responsibility for any snag in shipping growing out of a walkout of foreign Suez pilots and technicians.

But Lloyd denied in his speech that either the French or British governments have told non-Egyptian pilots in Egypt to quit their jobs.

"We have in no way sought to influence the pilots to leave," he told the House.

"But there really is a limit to what free men can be expected to undergo. As far as I know the men are now working under martial law of another country."

The Suez users' association proposed by the Western Big Three is aimed at regulating international traffic through the canal and supplying pilots to guide the ships.

"The association would be in the role of a tenant—collecting tolls but paying rental fees to Egypt as the landlord of the canal."

Prime Minister Eden has staked the life of his government on the new plan for the canal.

He asked Wednesday for a vote of confidence which was expected later today.

(United Press reported from London it is understood that canal convoys will be lined up in international waters and sailed into the Egyptian enclaves to the canal, where permission to enter will be sought. Under the 1888 treaty, no ship can be barred—civil ship or naval, peacetime or wartime—unless it poses a threat to the defence of Egypt itself.)

The question of canal pilots loomed larger as the plans for the users' agency were being outlined.

In Cairo about 100 of the 146 veteran pilots now on the job guiding ships through the difficult channel gave notice that they will quit their jobs Friday night. They are non-Egyptians hired by the old canal company, who said they now want to leave Egypt.

They had remained at their posts while attempts were made to negotiate a settlement of the dispute.

Lloyd today told a sharply-divided Commons:

"Of course there are grave practical difficulties to carrying out the plan but the grave practical difficulties are not of our making."

Emanuel Shinwell, defence minister in the last Labor government, suggested the canal users' proposal smacked of an American plot.

"I am very suspicious of the United States," he said.

Shinwell said he believes that there are "elements" in the U.S. which would like to boot Britain out of the Middle East—so far as oil is concerned.

British officials said the U.S. has promised to supply Britain with oil—payable in sterling instead of dollars—if Middle East sources are cut off.

DID NOT SAY 'LIAR' BENNETT EXPLAINS

Premier Bennett made it clear in his speech here Wednesday night that he had not used the term "liar" in referring to CCF leader Robert Strachan in a speech at Courtenay Monday night.

"I did not use those words. I've never used them," Mr. Bennett said.

What he had said at Courtenay was that statements made by Mr. Strachan regarding the B.C. Power Commission were untrue.

"But I did not use the word 'liar' as some papers reported," he said.

New Courthouse Starts Within Year---Chant

Dairymen Slated For Milk Board

Public Works Minister W. N. Chant announced Wednesday night a start will be made on a new Victoria courthouse within a year.

"By this time next year you will see the beginnings of a new courthouse," the minister told a Social Credit rally in the Royal Theatre.

He added that the choice of a site for the courthouse will be decided by the Capital Improvement District Commission.

Two sites mentioned previously were behind the present courthouse at Langley and Bastion, and the civil service parking lot at Government and Belleville.

"We are going to see you get your courthouse," Premier Bennett said later, "and this is not just one of those idle election promises. It is a certainty."

Mr. Chant also announced the provincial government will help pay for the new Point Ellice Bridge, providing the federal government helps also.

"The provincial government will match anything the federal government puts up to help build the bridge," he said. "It should be a federal responsibility since the bridge runs over a tidewater."

John Tisdale, Social Credit candidate for Saanich, stated a B.C. dairy farmer soon would be added to the three-man milk board.

NOMINATIONS
He said Agriculture Minister Kenneth Kiernan had agreed the industry should be invited to nominate suitable men from their own ranks.

"I understand the appointment will take place before next year."

Ald. Don Smith, Victoria candidate, coined another of his Churchillian phrases in reference to Premier Bennett:

"Never has a premier been criticized so few for so long because of doing so much for so many."

Waldo Skillings, who presided, said the late Premier William Abernethy of Alberta would go down in history as "one of the greatest statesmen the world has ever seen."

NEW MEASUREMENT
New official altitude of 20,320 feet for Mount McKinley in Alaska has been adopted by the U.S. geological survey.

BROTHERHOOD
Mrs. Lydia Arsenik, one of the three Victoria city candidates, held up the emblem of the Social Credit party—a green circle with a cross inside—and said it was symbolic of universal brotherhood.

She referred to Premier Douglas, CCF premier of Saskatchewan, as "a great man" and said "many of his policies are close to Social Credit because of their humanitarianism."

Kenneth Oliver, Social Credit candidate for Oak Bay, accused the opposition parties of "degrading themselves in the eyes of the people whose confidence they hope to gain."

"These malicious and personal attacks on individual candidates are an insult to the voter," he said.

Herbert Bruce, the candidate for Esquimalt, arrived towards the end of the meeting and made a brief appeal for support in the Sept. 19 election.

Princess Wants To Visit B.C. For Centenary

However, it is not likely to be a cross-country tour.

The informant said it is not official yet but the princess has indicated quite clearly that she wants to come.

'ECCLESIASTIC SNIPING' CHARGED TO ANGLICANS

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—The retiring moderator of the United Church of Canada Wednesday night criticized the acting primate of the Anglican Church of Canada for what he called "ecclesiastic sniping."

Rt. Rev. Dr. George Dorey also said that the main reason for failure of talks to unify the two churches "seems to be that in the Anglican Church the power and authority to deal with such matters as co-operation rests with the archbishops and bishops."

He urged the churches to "frankly face the problems of living together as well as those of growing together."

He interrupted his formal retirement address to the 10-day conference to deliver a sharp criticism of Archbishop Philip Carrington of Quebec, acting primate of the Anglican Church, who told his church's executive council last week that the United Church is not co-operating in attempts to unify the churches.

GUEST of Paris and the French government, Mayor Jean Drapeau of Montreal today began month-long tour of France.

ON IRISH FARM

Untended Boy, 7, Roosts Like Hen

BELFAST (AP)—Police today discovered a boy, apparently about seven years old, who has never bathed, cannot eat human food, grunts like an animal and roosts like a chicken.

Sgt. Hugh Ross said the "pitiful little boy," was found in a henhouse at Down Patrick, in County Down, 15 miles from Belfast. He was taken to a home in Belfast and turned over to physicians for examination.

Ross said a group of children playing "hide and seek" ran into the henhouses adjoining a cottage occupied by a widow and her two grown daughters. The children found the boy perched on a roost with the hens and roosters.

"He cannot talk, he cannot walk and he cannot eat human food," the sergeant said. "He has been reared like a chicken."

The mat of hair on his head did not appear ever to have been cut or washed. He had claw-like fingernails which probably never had been trimmed.

Said William Hamilton, official of the national society for the prevention of cruelty to children: "He gets about by hopping like an ape and he replies to voices with grunts in a half-human fashion." Police would not give the name of the widow, who is being questioned.
